

Kaukauna Man Is Killed When Car And Bus Collide

Five Others Hurt in Crash Involving Three Machines

INQUEST IS CALLED
Death Is First Traffic Fatality of Year In County

William Paschen, 57, 125 E. Second street, Kaukauna, was killed and five other persons injured in a traffic collision involving an automobile, coal truck and an Orange line passenger bus on old Highway 41, two miles north of Appleton, about 8 o'clock this morning. The death was the first highway fatality in Outagamie county this year. Seven persons were injured in five other accidents in the county over the weekend.

Paschen was driving toward Kaukauna and attempted to pass a truck driven by William A. Evers, Little Chute, when the car skidded, according to county police. The truck and auto collided and the Paschen machine swerved into the path of the passenger bus which was coming toward Appleton. The automobile was demolished and Paschen died of a skull fracture.

Dr. H. E. Ellsworth, county coroner, called an inquest for 2:15 this afternoon at J. J. Bretschneider funeral home where the body of the victim was taken.

Passengers Injured

Robert N. Davidson, 37, driver of the Orange line bus, which was Madison bound from Green Bay, was cut about the face. Four passengers in the bus also were cut and bruised. They are Julia DeKeyser, 62, Green Bay; Ada E. Evers, Green Bay; Allen Allison, Green Bay; and Norman Babcock, Beaver Dam. Julia DeKeyser was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital. None of the passengers was seriously hurt.

Sheriff John Lappen, Captain Charles Steidl and Jack Frenz of the county motorcycle squad went to the scene of the accident. Members of the coroner's jury are E. L. Williams, John Altenhofen, James Gerharz, George Brautigan, Aaron Zerbol and George Wichmann.

Mr. Paschen was born in Neenah in 1881 and was in the restaurant business in Kaukauna for 37 years. He was Kaukauna city treasurer from 1918 to 1920 and alderman from the fourth ward from 1922 to 1924. He was an elder in the Lutheran Evangelical church, a member of the Eagles, odd Fellows, and Maccabees.

Survivors

Survivors are the widow; two daughters, Ruth and Alice; one son, Howard, all of Kaukauna; five brothers, Fred, Albert, Green Bay; Herman, Charles, Kaukauna; Henry, route 5, Kaukauna; three sisters, Mrs. Anna Miller, Mrs. Emil Keel, Mrs. Charles Alberts, Kaukauna.

Following the inquest this afternoon the body will be taken to the Greenwood funeral parlors, Kaukauna.

John Vandenberg, 31, Oneida, suffered a back injury on an errand of mercy about 11 o'clock Sunday morning on Highway 54 in the town of Oneida.

He was taking Guy Skendero, Oneida, who had broken on his arm while cranking an automobile to a physician, when a flat tire sent their car into a ditch. The machine tipped over and Vandenberg was taken to St. Vincent hospital at Green Bay.

Mrs. John DeGoey, Combined Locks, suffered a compound leg fracture in a traffic accident at Little Chute at 7 o'clock Sunday evening.

Mrs. DeGoey was crossing Main street when she was involved in an accident with a car driven by

Rebel Fliers in Raid Along Mediterranean

Hendaye, France.—(AP)—Insurgent air raids along the Mediterranean coast were practically the only notable activity today in the Spanish civil war.

Except for minor operations on the Granada front, where insurgents said they straightened their lines, ground forces engaged in little fighting.

Insurgent planes caused greatest damage at Cabanau, near Valencia, where a government communication said five persons were killed and 40 wounded by bombs.

Other places attacked were La Arenas, also near Valencia, and Reus and Buriana, near Barcelona. One insurgent raider was reported shot down.

KAUKAUNA MAN KILLED IN CRASH

The first highway fatality in Outagamie county occurred about 8 o'clock this morning on old Highway 41, two miles northeast of Appleton, when an automobile and Orange line passenger bus, shown above, collided. Charter Day Will Be Celebrated at Banquet Tonight

Barrows, Goodland, Neller To Speak at Lawrence College Event

Celebration of the ninety-first anniversary of the Lawrence college charter grant will be held at a 6:30 banquet at the Conway hotel tonight at which 300 persons are expected.

Dr. Thomas N. Barrows, Lawrence president, will deliver the principal address at the Charter day dinner. Other prominent speakers will be Mayor John Goodland, Jr., and John Neller, president of the chamber of commerce.

Sponsored by the Lawrence Alumni association, the dinner is open to the public and invitations have been sent throughout the Fox River valley. L. R. Watson is general chairman.

Dean Carl J. Waterman of the Lawrence conservatory will sing and Carl S. McKee will lead community singing. Rex Mitchell, secretary of the alumni association, will be toastmaster and the program will be opened by Russell Flom, Menasha, association president.

The dinner will commemorate the granting of the charter to Lawrence college Jan. 17, 1847. The city's service clubs have cooperated with the alumni group in the distribution of tickets.

Witness Tells of 'Tapping' Phones

Nevada Senator Asks About Report That His Office Was Ransacked

Washington.—(AP)—Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) told the public lands committee today he had received a report that interior department investigators had entered his office at Little Chute at 7 o'clock Sunday evening.

McCarran asked Louis R. Glavis, former head of the interior department's investigation service, whether the report was true.

Glavis replied that he had left the interior department more than a year ago.

Glavis testified in connection with the public lands committee's consideration of the nomination of E. K. Burlew to be first assistant secretary of the interior department.

McCarran told Glavis he had received a telephone call last night from an unnamed person who said Glavis and other investigators had "entered my office a year and a half ago and spent three nights going through my files."

McCarran said his point in bringing up the report was "to explode it, if it is untrue."

Glavis read a statement saying that during his stay in the interior department his investigators had tapped department telephones.

He said he thought the tapping was justified because they were "government telephones and it was desirable to know whether they were being used improperly."

"Was there any eavesdropping on calls between the interior department and the White House," inquired Senator Steiwer (R-Ore.).

"We had attachments on certain phones," the witness answered. "Conversations coming in over those lines were recorded, regardless of whether it was the White House, or you or anybody else calling."

Italian Steamer Sends Appeal for Assistance

Manila, P. I.—(AP)—The Italian steamer Ischia, adrift in the Tongking gulf off Hainan island, sent out an S O S today requesting immediate assistance.

Atmospheric conditions prevented radio operators here from learning further details but an unidentified Chinese steamer was believed to be answering the distress call.

Guard Wounds 2 Convicts As 5 Try to Escape From Illinois Prison at Joliet

Joliet, Ill.—(AP)—An alert, crack-shooting prison guard, who wounded two convicts, was credited today with frustrating a desperate attempt by five long-term felons to escape from the Illinois state penitentiary after overpowering and binding a keeper.

Although four scaled the 22-foot wall, all five were captured within a few minutes after the break. Twenty-two other prisoners watched, but did not join the dash for freedom.

Superintendent of Prisons Joseph E. Ragen said the attempted escape yesterday was led by Donald Loftus, 36, serving a life sentence for bank robbery.

He was shot in the shoulder by Towerguard Thomas Shaw as he fled down the street which parallels the prison wall.

Murderer Wounded
One shot from Shaw's rifle also wounded Harry Gerken, 28, serving a 30-year sentence for murder. He was wounded in the leg as he reached the top of the wall.

The other prisoners were Peter Ristich, 26, sentenced to life imprisonment on an habitual criminal; William Yoho, 27, serving a one year to life sentence for robbery; and Edward Rabalais, 34, serving a one year to life sentence for robbery.

Ragen said 27 prisoners were at work in the laundry when one approached Keeper Edward Monahan and asked permission to trade trousers with another convict. Suddenly he leaped upon Monahan, and four others joined the attack.

Bind Keeper
They bound the keeper to a chair with an electric iron cord, fastened his feet with trouser belts and stuffed clothing in his mouth as a gag. Then the prisoners tied together four five-foot ladders used in the laundry, raced 100 yards to the wall and began their climb.

Ristich was the first over, but sprained his ankle and was forced to halt.

Yoho landed safely, only to be captured by two guards, Clarence Walthorne and Benjamin Jennings, who were off duty and walking nearby.

Loftus reached the street safely, but was felled a moment later by a bullet.

Gerken had reached the top of the wall when he was struck by another of Shaw's bullets. He remained there until guards came after him.

Rabalais, the fifth convict, became frightened when he heard the shot and ran back to the laundry.

Committee Kills 'Item Veto' Plan
Votes to Erase Amendment To Independent Offices Funds Bill

Washington.—(AP)—The senate appropriations committee eliminated today the "item veto" power for President Roosevelt written by the house into the appropriation bill for independent offices.

The full committee agreed to the recommendation of a subcommittee striking out the amendment which would have permitted the president to eliminate, or reduce, individual items in appropriation bills by executive order.

Some senators had expressed doubt over the legality of conferring the power without a constitutional amendment.

As approved by the senate committee, the bill carried $1,412,069,465 or $1,440,950 more than it did when it passed the house.

Grand Jury Convenes In Vice Investigation
Waukesha, Wis.—(AP)—Waukesha county's first grand jury convenes today to hear testimony concerning alleged vice and gambling conditions in the county.

Ten tavernkeepers are scheduled to appear before the 17-man grand jury today. The investigation is expected to run for several weeks under the direction of Special Prosecutor William J. McCauley, of Milwaukee.

Municipal Judge David M. Evans first proposed the probe, but it was taken over by Circuit Judge Charles M. Davidson when he summoned the grand jury at the request of District Attorney Scott Lowry in order to cover the entire county.

Filling Station Owner In Fight With Robber
Hope, Wis.—(AP)—Melvin Swenby, 23, exchanged shots last night with one of two men who attempted to rob his filling station.

Swenby, who had been visiting in Madison returned here to find an automobile cruising without lights in front of the station and a man at the side window.

"Get out of here before you get shot," Swenby shouted.

The driver of the car fled and his companion ran into a cornfield nearby. Swenby shot at him with a rifle and the man returned the fire about five miles and then lost his trail.

Returning from the search they sighted an automobile which had been stolen in Madison. They gave chase but the driver eluded them. Later the car was found abandoned at Stoughton.

Funds Proposal To Clear Path For Navy Plan

Committee Figure 11 Million Less Than Budget Request

MESSAGE A WAITED

Roosevelt Program May Result in Expansion Of Construction

Washington.—(AP)—The house appropriations committee, recommended today a $553,266,494 appropriation to finance the navy in the coming fiscal year—an increase of $26,723,186 over the current year.

Although the total was $11,139,967 less than the budget requested, it would permit start of construction of 22 new ships—two battle-ships to cost $70,850,300 each; two cruisers, eight destroyers, six submarines and four auxiliary vessels.

In addition, the committee recommended funds to continue construction of more than 70 ships already underway. The total for both continuing and new construction was $138,063,157, a reduction of $6,366,850 from budget estimates.

The proposed construction may be expanded substantially as a result of a message President Roosevelt is expected to send to congress in the near future outlining plans for strengthening the fleet in the light of world conditions which he said were causing him "growing concern."

Significant Items
The committee, in reporting the bill to the house, made no reference to the international situation but some of the items as approved, in addition to new ship construction, appeared significant.

One was $1,277,000 to reopen the torpedo manufacturing plant at Alexandria, Va., to supplement the output of the torpedo plant at Newport, R. I. The committee said the New port factory was on three shifts, but would be able to produce only about half the necessary quantity for the next six years.

The navy's aeronautics bureau has set an objective of 2,050 airplanes by 1941, compared with an earlier goal of 1,910.

Rear Admiral A. B. Cook, chief of the bureau, disclosed the number of aircraft now considered necessary to accompany the current ship construction program at hearings on the navy appropriation bill, made public today.

He said, however, the new objective "has not yet had the approval of the navy department."

Larger Squadrons
It is based, he added, on increasing some marine squadrons from 12 to 18 planes and providing additional planes for training at the Pensacola, Fla., air station and for other shore stations.

No appreciable increase is contemplated, Cook said, in the number of planes for the fleet.

The aviation program, the admiral said, calls for 1,921 planes in the next fiscal year.

He supplied figures showing the navy had 1,002 planes last Oct. 31, 1937 ordered and 320 to be ordered by the end of this fiscal year. In addition, he said, the navy had 1,002 planes in the next fiscal year.

Woldenberg Unable to Prove Bribery Offer

Madison.—(AP)—Sam Woldenberg, chief enforcement officer of the state beverage tax division reported to Governor LaFollette today that he is unable to prove the "facts and circumstances" of an alleged attempt by a Milwaukee attorney to bribe him.

Woldenberg said he made the report as a reply to a story published by the Madison Capital Times that the unnamed attorney had offered him $10,000 to "lay off" the prosecution of a bootleg ring.

Jail Break Attempt May Lead to Life Sentence

Flint, Mich.—(AP)—George Wolosonowich, 25, was faced with the possibility of life imprisonment today as the aftermath of an unsuccessful attempt to escape from the county jail.

Sheriff Thomas W. Wolcott said he would ask a life term for Wolosonowich for his part in plans of six prisoners to make a break for freedom. The sheriff said it was the fourth offense for Wolosonowich, which would make him an "habitual" case.

Wolosonowich was charged with burglary.

Chinese Claim Japanese are Pushed Back Along Yangtze Valley Fronts

Shanghai.—(AP)—Chinese armies on the northern, central and Yangtze valley fronts were reported today to have pushed back Japanese invaders in a series of counter attacks.

Advices through Chinese channels said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek in a second visit to front lines had ordered his troops "not to retreat a single inch."

Chinese reported that:

1. The Chinese eighth army, organized from once-out-lawed communist units, inflicted heavy losses on Japanese in central Shansi province.

2. A Chinese force along the Yangtze river above Nanking pushed back Japanese outposts, occupied two villages near Wuhu and prepared for an attempt to recapture Wuhu itself.

3. A Chinese guerrilla unit captured Chwansha, on the Pootung peninsula opposite Shanghai, bringing a Japanese declaration of martial law in Pootung.

4. Outer Mongolian troops advanced against Paotow in the northern province of Suiyuan.

(Dr. H. H. Kung, China's second most powerful leader, declared China "can continue the war for years," and said "all current talk of Chinese-Japanese peace, which apparently is inspired by Tokyo and Berlin, is utterly baseless.")

Senate Group Orders Hearing Thursday on Nomination of Reed

Early Showdown On Anti-Lynching Bill Thought Near

Connally, Southern Leader, Thinks 'We've Got It Beaten'

Washington.—(AP)—Predictions of an imminent showdown in the senate's anti-lynching filibuster brought expressions of confidence today from both supporters and foes of the controversial bill.

Senator Connally (D-Texas) leader of the southern opponents, said there were enough speakers to continue talking against the measure until the pressure of other legislation forces proponents to shelve it.

"I think we've got it beaten," said Senator Bailey (D-N.C.). "The longer it is debated, the more apparent it becomes that it should not pass."

Some administration senators, however, forecast that night sessions would be ordered soon, and that such a step would cause the filibuster to collapse. A few even talked of limiting debate, although opponents declared they could block that proposal.

Barkley Delays Action
Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, said he had not yet decided when night sessions might be held.

Barkley and other administration leaders have been hopeful some decision could be reached soon so that the government reorganization bill, next on the senate calendar, can be taken up.

The crop control and housing bills—on which joint committees still are trying to agree—may be ready soon for senate and house approval.

The farm conference began their third week of sessions today. Senator Smith (D-S.C.) said he would hold night sessions if necessary to complete work this week.

Urges Repeal of Profit-Gains Tax

Witness Says Action Would Provide 'Stimulant' To Business

Washington.—(AP)—A representative of the New York Board of Trade urged the house ways and means committee today to approve immediate repeal of the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes as a "stimulant" to business.

M. L. Seidman, chairman of the board's tax committee, said no tax was "more hated and discredited" than the corporate tax.

Seidman was the first private witness at hearings on tax revision recommendations of a ways and means subcommittee. The subcommittee has proposed modification of the undistributed profits tax for all but a few closely held corporations. These modifications would abolish the tax so far as firms with incomes of $25,000 or less are concerned. The committee hopes to complete hearings this week.

The great majority of business men, Seidman said, sincerely believe the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes "had much to do with the distortion of our capital economy and with the breaking down of confidence in the future functioning of our economy."

He recommended a flat tax of 12 1/2 per cent on capital gains to replace the present levy.

The New Yorker advocated a reduction of 50 per cent in all individual income tax exemptions, and an increase in the surtax on incomes over $4,000.

To offset these changes, he said he would repeal excise taxes, lower tobacco and gasoline taxes, and perhaps the liquor tax.

"You know," Representative Crowther (R-N.Y.) told the witness, "that they're not going to broaden the tax base in an election year."

Suspect Arrested in 2 New York Killings

Minneapolis, N. Y.—(AP)—John Reo, 55, a former filling station operator at Lyndhurst, N. J., was held today after all-night questioning with the "motiveless murder" of two Long Island women.

No charge had been filed against the man, known also as Revitch, who was picked up last night at a New York rooming house.

He was sought for questioning in the slaying of Mrs. Lenora Waite, 39-year-old widow, and Miss Jeanne Schuella, 19, her neighbor, who were found shot to death last Wednesday in Mrs. Waite's home in nearby Elmont. The slayer had bound them hand and foot with silk stockings, then shot each through the temple.

Police began a search for Reo, a distant relative of Mrs. Waite, after George Waite, the widow's son, said Reo had threatened them with death Thanksgiving day. Waite said Reo formerly had lived with them, but moved away after a quarrel.

Rifle Safe of $400 As Clerks are Busy Only Few Feet Away

While clerks worked a few feet away, the safe at Downer's pharmacy in the Irving Zuelke building was rifled of about $400 in cash, currency and checks between 3 o'clock and 5:45 Saturday afternoon.

It is believed that the thief or thieves hid on steps leading to the basement, and some pennies and a cash box from the safe were found on the stairway which is near the safe. The safe stands near the rear of the store. The outer door was open while the door to the inner compartment was fastened by a day lock which was opened.

Coins taken included $40 in half dollars, $20 in quarters, $25 in dimes, $5 in nickels and $2 in pennies. The currency and checks were in a large wallet which also is missing.

Says Oil Firms Used NRA Code As 'Red Herring'

Young Prosecutor Starts U. S. Summation in Trial at Madison

Madison.—(AP)—John Henry Lewin, youthful federal prosecutor, charged today in arguments to the jury that the major oil companies on trial for gasoline price fixing, took the law into their own hands and then used the old NRA code as a "red herring" defense.

On behalf of the government, Lewin started summation of the evidence in the four months' trial after Judge Patrick T. Stone had reserved his decision on whether he will grant defense motions for acquittal of the defendants—16 companies and 36 of their officials.

Depending upon Judge Stone's ruling, the jury which is trying the biggest anti-trust action of recent years, will get the case next Thursday or Friday.

Charges "Price-Rigging"
Prosecutor Lewin told the jurors that the defendants' companies had rigged the wholesale price of gasoline in the midwest and had "excited large sums of money on these rigged prices from the jobbers and consumers right here in this district."

He struck first at the defense claim that the companies had the sanction of the government when they started a program of buying the surplus gasoline of independent refineries during the period of the NRA petroleum code.

He charged that the defendants had betrayed the government and wronged all the more culpable for having gone further than the code permitted in seeking stabilization of the oil industry.

CIO Maritime Unions In Reply to Charges

Washington.—(AP)—An assertion that discipline had broken down on American merchant ships drew from CIO maritime unions today the reply that closed senate hearings were being used in an attempt to "prevent progress in passing corrective legislation for the seaman."

Testimony of an unidentified shipmaster that "our ships are infested with thugs, thieves, gamblers, dope runners, drunkards, and racketeers of all descriptions" was made public Saturday by Chairman Copeland (D-N.Y.) of the senate commerce committee.

The shipmaster, who said he was "liable to have a bullet in my back" if his name was disclosed, declared he had seen discipline "vanish entirely during the last two years."

Ralph Emerson, legislative representative of the unions, replied in a statement:

"It is obvious why his name was suppressed. It is not because, as he has been instructed to say, he would be killed (which is ridiculous), but rather because his statements will not bear scrutiny."

Negro Robber Asks for $6 in Holdup; Gets It

Little Rock, Ark.—(AP)—The Negro who held up a drug store last night knew what he wanted—and got it. "This is a holdup," he said, pointing a pistol at Gordon Hunt, a clerk.

"Well, what do you want?" asked Hunt.

"Six dollars," said the robber. Hunt took a $1 and $5 bill from the cash register. The Negro grabbed them and ran.

Will Meet 'to See Whether Anyone Wants to be Heard'

EXPECT EARLY O. K.

Senate Expects Confirmation Before End Of This Week

Washington.—(AP)—A senate judiciary subcommittee called a hearing today for Thursday on the nomination of Stanley F. Reed to the supreme court.

The subcommittee was formally set up by the full judiciary committee to consider the nomination. Headed by Senator Logan (D-Ky.), it also included:

Senators King (D-Utah); Dietrich (D-Ill.); McGill (D-Kans.); Van Nuys (D-Ind.); Borah (R-Idaho), and Norris (I-Neb.).

Logan said the subcommittee would meet Thursday "to see whether anyone wants to be heard."

Members of the committee expressed certainty that Reed would be confirmed this week, enabling him to take his seat before any new cases are heard.

Of the senators who commented on the nomination of the 53-year-old solicitor general, not one raised any objections. Senator Rush Holt (D-W. Va.), a frequent administration critic, was among members of both major parties indicating approval.

"An amazing thing about it," said Holt, "is that the president appointed a judge instead of one of his fervent 'haters.'"

Nevertheless the judiciary committee arranged for careful scrutiny of Reed's qualifications, even as Justice George Sutherland, whom he will succeed, made his final appearance on the bench.

No cases of national interest were up for decision by the justices, meeting at noon for the last session before a two weeks' recess. The retirement of the 75-year-old Sutherland will become effective at midnight.

Up to Subcommittee
After an informal discussion of Reed's nomination by the entire judiciary committee, Chairman Ashurst (D-Ariz.) said he would turn consideration over to a subcommittee headed by Senator Logan (D-Ky.).

The subcommittee will hold hearings, Ashurst added, and any person wishing to do so may appear before it.

Committeemen expected the hearing would be

Proposal for U. S. Utility Purchase Lacking Support

Most Congressmen are Lukewarm Toward Willkie's Suggestion

Washington—(P)—A proposal that the government buy out the largest private utility group in the Tennessee valley received scant support today from the first members of congress to discuss it.

Wendell L. Willkie had suggested that "as a last resort in a desperate situation," the government purchase power companies in that area which are subsidiaries of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation. Willkie is president of the latter company.

Representative Rankin (D-Miss.), leader of the public power bloc in the house, was more favorably inclined toward the idea than other legislators who commented. He expressed willingness for such a purchase if the price was not based on "inflated values."

Oppose Plan Chairman May (D-Ill.) of the house military committee, however, opposed purchase "at any price" as the beginning of "state socialism." Senator King (D-Utah) objected to the government buying any power plant.

Senator Norris (Ind-Neb.), father of the Tennessee Valley authority, said the government should make purchases only to avoid duplicating transmission lines or other equipment of private companies, but added:

"The utilities have made this difficult by asking a price that nobody could afford to pay."

Willkie said his proposal was a request to President Roosevelt's suggestion that the utilities sell their distribution systems to cities in the area.

Holding Companies Meanwhile, one administration adviser expressed doubt that the president would seek abolition of all business holding companies at this session of congress. Mr. Roosevelt said at a press conference last week that holding companies ought to be disbanded.

Some administration supporters in congress said they thought holding companies should be abolished by law only in the banking and insurance fields.

President Roosevelt arranged to discuss recovery Wednesday with the business advisory council of 55 men, and informed officials said additional talks with leaders of business, labor, farming and the consuming public may follow.

The White House gathering, Secretary Roper said, will be a round-table discussion on business problems. It has held recently with steel, railroad and manufacturing executives and others.

This would not be the first time the council had gathered facts for presentation to the president. Formed in June, 1933, at the instance of Secretary Roper to advise the administration on business problems, it has reported to Mr. Roosevelt on subjects ranging from neutrality and wage-hour legislation to unemployment and taxation. Few of its reports have been made public.

Woman Is Facing Murder Charge

Accused of Shooting Friend and Associate in Real Estate Business

Detroit—(P)—The state proceeded today with plans to charge Mrs. Julia M. Barker with the slaying of her friend and associate, Mrs. Edith Mae Cummings, her friend and associate through the rise and decline of their business fortunes.

Assistant Prosecutor William E. Dowling said he would recommend that Mrs. Barker be charged with first degree murder.

Sheriff's deputies marvelled at the strength of the 38-year-old prisoner. After refusing virtually all food and going sleepless for 36 hours, Mrs. Barker was taken yesterday to the snow-filled ravine near Belleville, Mich., where Mrs. Cummings was killed Saturday, but she flatly refused to make a statement or assist investigators in reconstructing the slaying.

A thousand curious spectators were present when the prisoner was taken to the isolated rural spot. Mrs. Barker slumped in the seat of a car and covered her head with a blanket.

Mrs. Barker earlier said the shooting was in self-defense. She accused the 42-year-old victim of threatening to kill her and commit suicide because "we're in so deep in these land deals that we will never get out."

Mrs. Barker surrendered a few hours after the shooting. The women were co-defendants in a Kentucky case involving the alleged swindle of Fayette county residents who had been sold Michigan property.

Pupils at Washington School to Get Toxoid

Toxoid for diphtheria prevention will be given pupils of Washington school beginning at 9:30 Tuesday morning, according to Miss Mary Orison, school nurse. Pupils who have had the toxoid should not repeat unless they have had Schick tests from their family physicians, she said. Pupils of Edison school were given diphtheria toxoid last week.

Clarion Business Staff To Meet at High School

Members of the Clarion business staff will meet today at Appleton High school to plan remaining work in connection with publication of the yearbook. The printing deadline is Feb. 1. The first deadline, that of the engravers, was met Dec. 15.

FEDERAL OIL TRIAL MAY REACH JURY THIS WEEK

As the anti-trust action against 16 major oil companies, charged with gasoline price fixing, started its sixth week at Madison, opposition attorneys agreed that an end was in sight. The case may reach the United States attorney general, who headed the prosecution; Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone, who presided; William J. Donovan, New York, chief of defense counsel.

State Socialism To be Big Issue In 1938 Election

Roosevelt Has Committed Himself to Public Ownership Idea

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Private property and private business in America—the economic mechanism counted upon to provide jobs for the millions of persons now walking the streets—was given a severe jolt over the week-end.

President Roosevelt may not have meant it that way, but it is a tragic commentary on the insignificance of the congress of the United States that nowadays it is within the power of one man to issue a death sentence on investments honestly acquired. The executive alone, and without consultation with his cabinet or with congressional leaders or senate and house committees, virtually commits the government itself to a national policy of public ownership.

This is accomplished by using funds broadly delegated by congress to the executive to be used for "relief" and "emergency," which funds he now lends to cities and states so that the latter may engage in competition with private businesses. When the competition becomes deadly and there is duplication of facilities, the president says, the city or state governments, that case in hand, should buy out the private companies. The funds would be loaned by a federal government with a badly unbalanced budget.

State Socialism If, in the interest of the consumer, it is proper for the federal government to put cities and towns into the electric light business which cannot do so on their own credit, it is logical that Uncle Sam to start lending money to city governments to conduct and then buy out drug stores, grocery stores, department stores, lumber companies, oil companies, coal companies and so on. This is what is meant by state socialism.

The supreme court of the United States has by no means legalized this process, but merely has ruled technically that individuals, such as affected by the government competition, have no standing in court to raise the issue. For generations, it has been a legal circumstance that no taxpayer can sue the federal government to prevent the waste of his tax money by public agencies.

The remedy against unwise laws, however, said Justice Stone in his famous opinion in the A.A.A. case is not in the courts, but at the ballot box. That's where, in the year 1938, through a congressional election, the American people will have to decide whether they want the government to embark, especially in the present state of its finances, on a policy of "own everything" and "control everything."

Mr. Roosevelt has hesitated for a long time to commit himself to the public ownership idea, but in last Friday's press conference, he crossed the Rubicon. It is a short step now to nationalization of railroads, bus lines, banks, air lines, auto companies and dealer outlets, and other businesses and essential instrumentalities of commerce.

Maybe the government ownership advocates are right, if you believe in socialistic theory or communal enterprises. But some guarantees will have to be discovered whereby all government-managed businesses will be kept free from the "spoils system," which Mr. Roosevelt himself tolerates, and free from political influence, which is so rampant in Washington nowadays. Also, some way will have to be found to extract higher taxes from an already overburdened public so as to make up the loss of revenues to the city, state and federal treasuries when all these private businesses are wiped out and their successors become tax-exempt.

How to Change? Likewise, the question arises as to how the transition from a democracy to a socialistic state is to be accomplished; how, indeed, to perform such a major operation on the economic body without causing a loss of economic blood in all arteries of business when a right arm is amputated in the so-called "public interest."

Wendell Willkie of the Commonwealth and Southern system sees the handwriting on the wall and promptly offers to sell his Tennessee valley facilities. In his holding company, which owns 100 per cent of all the common stock of its subsidiaries, is not to be found, he declares, one dollar of so-called "write-up." All the operating companies in his system, some of which are to be damaged by federal competition, have outstanding about $200,000,000 in first mortgage bonds, of which insurance companies, colleges, universities, hospitals, charitable endowments hold $150,000,000. About 80,000 people own the rest. Then there are in addition 200,000 individual stockholders owning the preferred stocks and bonds of the holding company, with a cast investment amounting to another $200,000,000.

American Artists Exhibit Opens at Lawrence Library

Etchings, Woodcuts, Lithographs on Display at College

Original etchings, woodcuts, and lithographs from the American Artists Group went on display today in the library of Lawrence college.

Subjects suiting all tastes are included in the exhibit, conservative and so-called modern art, realistic, abstract, and even surrealist. There are landscapes, humorous and genre pictures, sports scenes, animals, industrial scenes, nudes, and still life.

In assembling the American Artists Group, a deliberate attempt was made to bring together representative artists of every school and style.

The works have been created during the last year and are part of the group's program to produce pictures available not only to the wealthy art collector but to all those average Americans who enjoy good books, music and art.

Artists represented in the exhibit are Rockwell Kent, John Marin, Allen Lewis, J. J. LaRue, Adolf Dehn, Mabel Dwight, Ernest Fien, Wanda Gág, Howard Cook, Emil Ganso, William Gropper, Yasuo Kuniyoshi, George Biddle, Reginald Marsh, Kenneth Hayes Miller, Miguel Covarrubias, Conrad Buff, Paul Landacre, Arnold Ronnebeck, Waldo Peirce, and Agnes Tait.

Relief Costs in State Increased During November

Average Grant for Case Was $23.29 and Total Aid Was $886,785

Rising rapidly in response to widespread need caused by a sharp recession in employment and the usual seasonal necessities of winter, Wisconsin's general relief case load reached a total of 38,087 during November, representing approximately 137,000 persons, according to a report received at the county public welfare department.

Since August when the number of cases receiving relief totaled only 28,926 persons, the lowest level in six years, the case load has increased by 9,161, or virtually one third. The rise from October was 14.6 per cent.

November's relief load still totaled slightly less than for the same month last year. However, the decline from 1936 has become smaller and smaller since August. This trend reflects the return to relief rolls of hundreds of cases with able-bodied members which were denied relief in many counties during the summer months as well as the sharp recession in industrial employment which began to be felt in Wisconsin during October.

Higher Rate Due to increased expenditures for fuel, clothing and other winter necessities, total grants to relief cases rose at a slightly higher rate than the case load. During November they totaled $886,785, 16.8 per cent more than in October. This sum includes grants not chargeable directly to individual relief cases, such as the salaries of doctors employed under a contract basis and local contributions to WPA sewing and surplus commodity distribution projects, as well as grants directly extended to individual relief cases.

The average grant per case during November was $23.29 as compared with $22.84 during October. These averages were obtained by dividing total relief grants during the month by the total number of cases receiving relief at any time during the month. Since the majority of relief cases receive only partial relief or need aid for only part of the month, these figures naturally underestimate the average grant to a case receiving full relief during the entire month.

In Outagamie county 469 cases received relief totaling $12,222.12.

State Good Will Tour to Start 15-Day Trip Feb. 24

Southward, ho! With this cheery farewell, scores of Wisconsin boosters carrying the good will of their dairy state will depart from Madison and Milwaukee Feb. 24 for the sunny south aboard the fourth official Good Will train authorized by the state legislature. The tour will continue for 15 days and Outagamie county will be represented on the trip.

Deepest southern point on the itinerary is Miami, Fla., but 22 other key cities in the south and east will be visited. Stops will be made at Chicago, Evansville, Ind.; Nashville and Chattanooga, Tenn.; Atlanta, Ga.; Tarpon Springs, Clearwater, St. Petersburg, Tampa, Lakeland, Orlando, Miami, St. Augustine, and Jacksonville, Fla.; Savannah, Ga.; Richmond, Va.; Washington, D. C.; Baltimore, Md.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Columbus, Ohio, and Fort Wayne, Ind.; Madison, Milwaukee and Chicago are included as stops in the going and return schedule.

Reservations Passenger reservations have been coming in at an encouraging rate for the past several weeks, according to George H. Dobbins, Weyauwega, general chairman of the tour, and there are various indications that several cars will be needed to haul exhibits depicting the state's agricultural, industrial, and recreational advantages.

Assurance that the train will be accorded a royal welcome is contained in numerous letters received by Mr. Dobbins from governors of states, and mayors and civic organizations of cities to be visited. Conducted tours of historic and scenic points have been planned for those who are making the tour a pleasure trip, while opportunities to inspect potential markets will await the various business representatives aboard the train.

Old battlegrounds at Lookout Mountain, Moccasin Bend, Chickamauga, and Missionary Ridge, and mansions of Civil war leaders are among the historic points to be seen in the deep south.

The magical atmosphere of the sea and the lure of old Spanish settlements promise a fascinating morning and afternoon.

Workers Class Studies Current Labor Problems

Current labor problems and collective bargaining will be studied by the workers education class at 7:30 tonight in the city council chambers.

Now in its second term, the class will examine various agreements and how to improve on them. During the first term, the course was devoted to parliamentary law.

ADJOURN CASE

Clifford Wallen, Appleton was charged with abandonment in municipal court of Judge Thomas H. Ryan Friday. The case was adjourned until Feb. 14 and bond was set at $300.

Appleton Banks Report $318,800 Gain in Deposits

Resources, Loans and Discounts Increase During 1937

Deposits in the three Appleton banks increase $318,819.01 during 1937, comparison of the figures at the start of last year and those contained in the annual reports issued this week discloses.

At the start of 1937, the three banks' total deposits amounted to $11,199,789.11. The figures released by the First National, Appleton State, and Outagamie County banks this week shows their combined deposits to be $11,518,608.12.

Resources of the three banks gained $351,342.80 during the last 12 months, the survey shows, moving from $13,287,844.09 to $13,639,186.89.

Comparison of the annual reports reveals that loans and discounts increased $143,505.58 during 1937. A year ago the total figure for the three banks was $3,428,604.72. The present figure is $3,572,110.30.

Librarian Asks County Borrowers to Renew Old Cards

Holders of county borrower's cards at the Appleton public library must renew them for 1938, according to Mrs. Nancy B. Thomas, librarian. All county cards expire on Dec. 31 and must be renewed for the new year, she explained.

Circulation in the county during 1937 totaled 21,286 volumes. Of the total, 12,258 volumes were circulated in county schools, 1,737 were loaned to adults and 1,291 were loaned to children.

Books are packed at the library for circulation in the schools and the teacher is responsible for their return. Any resident of Outagamie county may borrow books at the Appleton library.

Following are circulation totals for the various towns and villages in the county during 1937: Bear Creek village, 30; Black Creek, 107; Black Creek village, 401; Bonna, 192; Buchanan, 1,909; Center, 818; Cicero, 19; Combined Locks, 504; Dale, 423; Deer Creek, 1; Ellington, 515; Freedom, 3,351; Grand Chute, 1,779; Greenville, 2,661; Hortonville, 79; Hortonville, 40.

City of Kaukauna, 573; town of Kaukauna, 1,266; Kimberly village, 4,500; Liberty, 1; Little Chute, 10; Lone, 1,349; Maun, 9; city of New London, 7; Oneida, 16; Osborn, 36; city of Seymour, 74; Seymour, 25; Shiocton village, 45; and Vandenberg, 598.

The county board's appropriation for the Appleton library this year was increased to $1,000. Last year the amount was set at $950.

A loud speaker was installed at the rink and phonograph records provided music during the party. Candy was sold by staff members of the school candy store.

Season for Study of Birds, Trees, Stars Never Closes

BY CLARA HUSSONG

About half of the activities outlined for boy and girl scouts in the form of outdoor recreation and in these nature study plays a leading part. With the coming of winter some outdoor sports come to a close but the season for the study of birds, animals, trees and stars is never closed. A few children have enough individuality in their natures to follow some hobby—alone or with members of their family participating, but most of them have the "herd instinct," as psychologists call it, and they wait until their playmates take up a sort of hobby before they become interested.

Those who join a scout troop find hundreds of things to do, often the very things their parents or teachers urged upon them but which never appeared to them before. Now, in company with their playmates and with wise and interesting leaders to direct them, these projects become fun to do.

Try New Fields
Often parents who are nature lovers deplore the fact that their child takes no interest in the pastime which they themselves find so absorbing. There may be several reasons for this, the most likely one being that for the child nature study had been "done to the death" in that family. Or perhaps, and this is most often true with children who are leaders instead of followers, the child resents the parents' superior wisdom along that line and he wishes to indulge in a hobby of which his parents are ignorant, so that he can tell how it is done.

Still another reason may be that the particular branch of nature study which the child can and will be interested in is one which the parents have never explored. Perhaps it is a study of stars, or identifying tracks of animals or birds, or gathering frogs' eggs. Winter time is an especially good season for the study of astronomy for then some of our brightest and most beautiful stars may be seen. Invariably the first we learn to know are those which form the Big Dipper. Directly in line with the two stars that form the front of the dipper we may find the North Star, a stationary star.

The North Star is also the tail star of the handle of the Little Dipper, a smaller constellation which revolves within the arc formed by the revolving Big Dipper. Do you know that the time of the night and the seasons may be told by the position of the Dippers? A little book, "Seeing Stars," by W. B. White, which can be had for a small fee, explains this clearly, but if any of my readers wish me to discuss this subject more thoroughly at some future time I shall be glad to do so.

Orion in Evening
Another conspicuous constellation near the North Star is Cassiopeia's Chair, which looks like a badly printed letter M or W, depending upon the hour and season when it is viewed.

In the northeastern horizon, early in the evening look for Orion. As children we called part of this constellation "cow's head," because the three stars in Orion's belt and the little stars leading to the fiery Nebula make a convincing picture of the head of a well-fed beef. Betelgeuze, which is said to be 250 times larger than our sun and 3,000 times as luminous, marks his shoulder and Rigel, to the right and below the three stars in the belt, marks his knee.

Lower in the horizon and farther to the east we may see Sirius, our brightest star. This is also called the Dog Star because it forms the nose of the group, Canis Major, or the Great Dog. Behind the Great Dog is Orion's Little Dog.

Start Bird Chart
This, being the first month in the year, is a good time to start your bird chart, whether you are a boy or girl scout or not. A small notebook or a few pages of paper clipped together will be all you will need. Divide the page into any number of columns, from three to six or more, depending on how much information you wish to set down.

In the first column write the number of the bird, in the second its name, in the third the date first seen. If you wish you may add the classification of the bird, whether as a summer or winter resident, permanent resident or migrant. Also, if you wish to go into this more thoroughly, you may

After a snowfall it is interesting to observe the tracks found on your front porch, on the lawns or in city parks and woodlands. You may find the small, hopping tracks of the sparrow, the larger walking ones of starlings or blue jays or those of squirrels and mice.

These are only a few suggestions for boy and girl scout nature work at this season. By looking through their scout diaries you may find many more which can be carried on in winter as well as summer.

Buckman Salesmen Did Big Business In Fox River Area

Loss of Defunct Madison Investment Firm May Total $750,000

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — Salesmen for the B. E. Buckman company, defunct Madison investment house now under fire by both the state and federal governments, did a large volume of business in the Fox River Valley territory a schedule of assets and liabilities of the firm on file today in federal court here show.

Figures filed show that the Fox River Valley office of the company, located in Green Bay, made sales throughout that section, and that representatives of the securities house made a good living.

By its own defunct petition, filed in federal court here over the weekend, the Buckman company revealed that it owes twice as much as it owns, and that it was short at least $430,000 when it went into federal receivership about six weeks ago.

However, it was reported unofficially here yesterday that the loss which resulted in bankruptcy of one of the Wisconsin's largest financial houses may run as high as $750,000, due to the probability that all liabilities have not yet been listed.

May Not Be Complete

In his report to the federal court when he filed the company's first schedule of assets and liabilities, W. J. Sullivan, attorney for the company, said that the schedule which he filed "did not include assets or liabilities which may be shown on branch office books and not on the office books, the limited time not permitting examination of the branch office books."

The company had five branch offices, it was pointed out, the most active of which were those in Milwaukee and Green Bay. Significantly, the list of borrowed securities, listed in the schedule of assets and liabilities as "security loans payable in securities of same issue and denomination, or in cash value of securities at time of loan," included names which were predominantly of Fox River Valley residents. Similarly, the list of unsecured creditors who bought securities which had not been delivered at the time the Buckman company went into bankruptcy included many investors from Appleton, Green Bay and surrounding points, with relatively few from Madison.

At Appleton, where the principal offices and most of the salesmen of the company were located, Appleton Area.

Here is a list of persons in the immediate Appleton area from whom Buckman officers and salesmen, according to the company's own statement, borrowed securities, and the face value of the securities:

Albert C. Koepsel, Neenah, $1,000; Charles W. Hale, Neenah, $1,000; Sarah B. Hale, Neenah, $1,000; Mary Baird, Neenah, $2,000; Anna Hebach, Menasha, $1,000; Emil Kind, Menasha, $3,000; Mrs. Hannah H. Buckman, Denmark, $7,000; H. F. Recknagel, Seymour, $5,000; Ella Pasch, Seymour, $3,200; Louisa Fiestadt, Seymour, $3,200; William Zachow, Appleton, $5,000; Julia A. Forman, Appleton, $3,000; Henry Doran, Neenah, $1,000; Albert Koepsel, Neenah, $1,000; Mrs. Ernestine Dix, Neenah, $1,000; Miss Mary Baird, Neenah, $1,000; Charles W. Hale, Neenah, $1,000; Mrs. Laura Smith, Neenah, $1,000; Mrs. O. F. Olson, Neenah, $3,000; Mrs. Sarah B. Hale, Neenah, $2,000; Hans J. Laursen, Neenah, $5,500.

Total of such borrowings, the statement said, was $188,900. Unsecured creditors who bought securities which had not been delivered at the time the Buckman company went into bankruptcy represented more than $33,000 of the company's total liabilities.

They include: James W. and Amelia Brown, Kaukauna, $1,000 and Fred Radzinski of Mishicot, $2,000, and several persons from Green Bay and Oshkosh and other state cities. Those who loaned securities to the firm also represented many residents of Oshkosh and Green Bay and nearby points.

Some of the Buckman salesmen earned comfortable commissions, the federal court statement indicated. Earnings of B. E. George of the Madison office, for example, a half month before the company closed its doors in Madison and in all its branch offices were given as $5,233.06, most of which, however, was on the liability side of the ledger as unpaid. J. C. Casey, a Valley salesman working out of the Green Bay office, had earnings of $2,216.11 for the same period, the report says.

Veteran of 83 Years of Service Continues Working as He Nears 100

Milwaukee—John M. Horan, who claims to be the oldest active railroad employee in the United States, worked as usual today, little concerned over his approaching 100th birthday.

It was 83 years ago that the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad company offered Horan his first job, the task of keeping woodburning locomotives supplied with fuel. Today, Horan is still working for the same railroad.

On the eve of his birthday next Sunday, Horan will be honored at a dining car luncheon in the Milwaukee shops. President H. A. Scandrett and other railroad officials will attend.

Five Rinks Will be Ready for Skating Enthusiasts Tonight

Five ice rinks in the city will be ready for skaters tonight, superintendents in charge reported today. Jones park, Erb park and Packard street rinks were cleared today and are in fair condition. Rinks in the Third ward and at the Wilson school will be cleared this afternoon and also were reported to be in fair condition after last night's sleet.

Chautemps Again Striving to Form Cabinet in France

Leon Blum Fails to Gain Support of 'National Union' Program

Paris—(P)—Camille Chautemps struggled in an anxious atmosphere today to form a new people's front ministry to end France's four-day crisis, precipitated when his own cabinet resigned Friday in the face of financial and labor troubles.

President Albert Lebrun summoned the radical-socialist former premier after Leon Blum, socialist leader, failed to gain support for a "national union" government.

A strained calm pervaded the halls of the chamber of deputies and was evident throughout the nation as France's acute financial and labor problems continued unsolved because of the failure to organize a ministry.

The country's restlessness was increased by new discoveries of hidden arms caches in the Surete National's drive against leftist and rightist revolutionary organizations.

After his conference with Lebrun, Chautemps indicated he would attempt to form a cabinet made substantially on his old people's front government, retaining several of his previous ministers.

Compromise Group Seen

Just as conservative opposition killed Blum's "audacious" attempt to form a cabinet, it was reported in the chamber of deputies that socialist opposition was developing a new Chautemps cabinet.

There also was talk Chautemps was seeking a combination between the radical, socialist and the moderate centrist followers of Paul Reynaud, former finance minister.

Chautemps was said to have talked with Edouard Herriot, radical-socialist president of the chamber, with Blum, with Edouard Dauterive, former defense minister, and Senate President Jules Jeanneney.

The bourse was open, but only limited foreign exchange operations were allowed. Banks quoted the franc at 30.30 to the dollar.

Everybody Blamed

As night of the fourth day of the crisis approached huge placards appeared on the boulevards laying the blame for France's troubles variously on capital and labor, rightist and leftists. One called for an anarchist mass meeting.

Blum, who had been designated after he had blocked efforts by Georges Bonnet, radical socialist, to form a government, had met conservative opposition for his plan to draw support from centrist factions for the people's front lineup of socialists, communists and radical socialists.

Chautemps rushed to the presidential palace just a half hour after Blum renounced the premier'ship with a declaration that "I want neither a day nor even an hour lost to the country for my personal satisfaction."

Tasks now facing a new government included: ending widespread strikes by bringing capital and labor together; strengthening the franc; reducing of the treasury deficit and rebuilding French influence among central European allies which are drifting toward Germany and Italy.

It Is Said--

That Frank Ridder, chef at the Conway hotel, is going about his duties with a brighter smile these days. Ridder, whose bowling average is said to be about 120, had a dollar bet with Harry Rodder, manager, whose average is roundabout 180, on a pin match. Rodder, anticipating an easy win had purchased a frame for the dollar bill, but Ridder won the match and also got the frame. The bill and frame are being exhibited at the hotel.

RESIGNS

The Rev. Horace W. Parsons, above, assistant minister at First Congregational church for the last 10 months, will leave here the middle of February to take over his duties as pastor of the Congregational churches at Millbank and Albee, S. Rev. Parsons to Become Pastor of Church in Dakota

Resignation of Congregational Assistant Effective Feb. 15

The Rev. Horace W. Parsons has tendered his resignation as assistant minister of First Congregational church to become pastor of the Congregational churches in Millbank and Albee, S. D. His resignation from the local church becomes effective Feb. 15 and he plans to be in Millbank the following Sunday.

Mr. Parsons who has been assistant minister at the local church since last April 1, came to Appleton immediately after completing his studies at Chicago Theological seminary in March. He will have complete charge of the parish at Millbank, a town of 2,500 persons, where he and Mrs. Parsons will make their home, and also will be in charge of the parish at Albee, which is a smaller community about 18 miles away.

When Mr. and Mrs. Parsons go to South Dakota to live, they will not be entering unfamiliar territory, for Mr. Parsons spent two summers in that state as a student pastor while studying at Chicago Theological seminary and he wrote his graduate thesis on "The Development of Congregationalism in South Dakota." Mrs. Parsons home before her marriage was Yankton, S. D.

Japs Driven Back, Chinese Assert

planes raided Japanese airfields and military concentrations. South of Shanghai, a strong Chinese force on the south bank of the Chientang river was said to have blocked Japanese attempts to advance from Hangchow, Chekiang province capital. Chinese guerrilla detachments operating from hills near Hangchow harassed the Japanese lines.

Japanese army and navy spokesmen announced jointly that there were "no major developments" on any front. There were only scanty reports on the Chinese counter-drive in southwestern Shantung and northern Anhwei provinces, where some 400,000 Chinese were trying to hold the Japanese back from Suichow, junction point on China's vital east-west Railway, the Lunghai.

The United States cruiser Marblehead stood by at the North China port of Chefoo, in Shantung province, to protect lives and property of 55 American adults and 27 children.

Study Proposals For 18 Changes in State Government

Governor and Committee Find Little Opposition To Transfers

Madison—(P)—Governor LaFollette and the reorganization committee created by the 1937 legislature skimmed through 18 proposals for changes in state government today, finding little opposition to contemplated transfers of departmental functions.

The government with constitutional officers and legislators, who make up the advisory committee, recessed after a two hour discussion until this afternoon when they will act on the recommendations in executive session.

Governor LaFollette informed the committee that State Treasurer Solomon Levitan and tax commission officials had agreed that change should be made in the collection of gasoline taxes which the governor suggested should be shifted from the treasurer's office to the tax commission.

No Final Decision

However, the governor said, the conferees did not reach a final conclusion and on his recommendation the proposals were laid over for further consideration.

By agreement of the departments involved, the committee received without discussion recommendations for the following transfers:

Sanitary inspection of municipal institutions from the board of control to the board of health.

Tuberculosis sanatorium at Wales from the board of control to the board of health.

Lake Tomahawk camp from the board of control to the board of health.

The administration of state aids for county tuberculosis sanatoria from the board of control to the board of health.

School for the deaf from the board of control to the superintendent of public instruction.

State treasury agents from the department of agriculture and markets to the tax commission.

Wisconsin Mining school from the mining school board to the superintendent of public instruction.

Municipal reporting division from the tax commission to the secretary of state.

Signing of highway contracts, leases, etc., from the executive office to the budget director.

Signing of leaves of absence and releases from state penal institutions from the executive office to the board of control.

J. T. Hooper, former superintendent of the state school for the blind at Janesville, objected to the proposal of transferring that school from the board of control to the superintendent of public instruction and the work shop and field agency for the blind from the board of control to the state board of vocational education. He contended the division of jurisdiction between the two departments would result in inefficient management. He suggested that both the school and the workshop be placed under supervision of the department of public instruction.

Favors Delay

John Callahan, state superintendent of public instruction, suggested that the committee defer action on this proposal until a later meeting.

A proposal to transfer Stout institute from the board of vocational education to the board of regents of normal schools brought a mild protest from B. E. Nelson, president of the school. He said he feared the institute, which specializes in manual training and industrial arts, would suffer from competition with other normal schools in demands for operating funds.

E. G. Doudna, secretary of the board of normal school regents, contended Stout institute would benefit from the present program of "specialization" in the normal schools. He said recent discomfiture of the industrial arts department at the Oshkosh normal was voted with the understanding that such studies would be made a specialty at Stout.

HEALTH QUERIES ANSWERED

Question: I am bothered with severe colds every winter. What is your advice? Mrs. R. J. L.

Answer: This is the season of the year when colds and la grippe (influenza) are quite prevalent. Colds are extremely disagreeable and annoying, and cold neglected is very likely to develop into a more serious type of illness. The trouble, perhaps, is that you lack the vital energy to withstand the treacherous changeable conditions so prevalent at this season. Through accurate spinal adjustments, Chiropractic relieves the pressure upon delicate nerves, permitting the abundant flow of vital force to every organ and soon the thrill of health is yours again.

Question: Will Chiropractic help my stomach trouble if I decide to take Chiropractic from you? Mr. R. J. S.

Answer: You see, Mr. R. J. S., the brain is the generator where all impulses are manufactured. The impulses are transmitted over the spinal cord and nerves to all parts of the body where they are expressed as life. Therefore, mental impulses are essential to life. Now then, should this nerve passing to the stomach become pressed upon or impinged in the spine the transmission of the impulse or function of the nerves will be impaired, and the stomach will fail to receive the proper amount of force to perform its function. This then would be called indigestion or stomach trouble and could only be corrected by relieving the impingement by proper technique of the offending vertebra. By that I mean the location and degree of nerve pressure verified by the use of an instrument or Neurocalometer the only scientific means of knowing or determining nerve pressure. My advice to you, take Chiropractic for your health. Phone 4319W for appt.

Fire Opening Shots in War Against Traffic Deaths on Public Highways in State

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — The resources of the state government this week were thrown behind public volunteer groups fighting one of the biggest problems of modern, mechanized society, the ever increasing toll of human lives by careless, irresponsible, or drunken drivers on the public highways.

Following a series of preliminary announcements last week, Theodore Dammann, Wisconsin secretary of state, proceeded today with plans to rid Wisconsin streets and highways of the drunk and the vampire drivers by means of a stringent application of the authority vested in him by law to require driving tests for all drivers' license applicants.

New regulations, Dammann said, will go into effect about February 1. Drivers' examinations will be given at 186 authorized testing stations throughout the state, which will be made public soon.

Side by side with stricter license enforcement Dammann has inaugurated a mammoth publicity and educational campaign which will reach every driver, enforcement officer high school student, parent teacher association member, and all members of women's clubs and leading civic organizations.

Local Cooperation
More than 200 local enforcement officers, he said, will cooperate in giving the license examinations, which will consist of a driving test and an oral examination in important questions relating to state traffic laws. Examinations must be passed by drivers whose licenses have been suspended or revoked according to law, and by every person not previously licensed in Wisconsin.

"Very few people are aware of the fact that under the present driver's license law it is possible to suspend or revoke driver's licenses for over seventy separate offenses," according to Dammann. "In order to make available to enforcement officers pertinent information regarding the records of drivers whose licenses have been suspended or revoked, since November 30, 1937, a conditional driver's license has been issued to every person whose driving privileges have been restored."

An important point in Dammann's campaign is the conviction that enforcement of local ordinances alone has no effect upon the record of the drunken or reckless driver, for the state law expressly forbids the suspension or revocation of a license of a person prosecuted under municipal or county traffic ordinances. Further, the secretary of state is powerless to refuse a duplicate license to such a person on his demand.

Dammann is requesting local authorities, in serious traffic offenses, to prosecute under both state and municipal law, so that both a fine and a suspension of license is possible.

National safety authorities, according to state officials, declare that there should be at least ten revocations of license for each highway fatality. Since more than 800 Wisconsin citizens met death on the highways of Wisconsin last year, there should have been at least 8,000 license revocations. In reality it is estimated that there were less than 2,000, showing that state law is not being adequately enforced.

Fined $10, Costs on Charge of Drunkenness
William McCarey, 321 W. College avenue, pleaded guilty of drunkenness and was fined $10 and costs with an alternative of 20 days in the county detention camp by Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court this morning. McCarey was arrested by city police.

PARKER FINED
George Reimer, 127 S. Story street, was fined $1 and costs by Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court this morning when he pleaded guilty of violating the city parking ordinance.

W. C. Kluge Head Of Brotherhood Succeeds W. F. Hahn After Latter's Election as Church Chief

Black Creek—W. C. Kluge, new president of the Brotherhood of St. John Evangelical church conducted his first meeting Friday evening in the basement of the church.

Mr. Kluge was appointed president after the resignation of the former president, W. F. Hahn, who is the new president of the church.

The Rev. A. F. Grollmus led devotionals and also the topic on "International Mission." He brought out the need of international mission, its work and its results.

Willard Seger and Harold Dey gave several musical selections and darts followed the business meeting.

The Homemaker's club of the town of Cicero held a meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Jarchow. There was a lesson on knitting and crocheting. About twenty women attended.

The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George Klarner and will be a Valentine party.

Seventeen tables were in play at the open card party Thursday evening at the American Legion hall. Prize winners were Mrs. M. C. Monroe, R. J. Tesch, bridge; R. H. Gehrke, J. N. Wagner, schafkopf; Arnold Stephani, George Stengel, R. D. Bishop, skat.

L. A. Grunwaldt is chairman of the President's Birthday ball which will be held Jan. 28, at the Community hall. He was appointed by the county chairman, Mr. Parnell of Appleton.

Sanford N. Borth, local insurance agent, has been notified of his election to the Live members club, honorary organization, sponsored by the Lumberman's Mutual Casualty company, which comprises its leading agents throughout the country.

Membership in the club is awarded on the basis of the agent's ability as an underwriter, success as a producer, faithfulness to his clients, loyalty to his company and integrity in his dealings.

VISITORS FROM THE HOARY PAST

Four mummies from Peru were recently placed on display at New York. The claim is that they walked this earth some 1400 years ago.

The bodies were found buried in large palm fiber baskets and were wrapped with 60 layers of cloth. With the bodies were strings of beads, food in the form of corn, peanuts and peppers, also clothing in the form of shirts, ponchos and shawls of rich and intricate patterns some of them elaborately decorated.

This is but one item in an extensive history of the American continent that is in the process of preparation as archeologists sift ruins and put together the broken relics of bygone centuries.

It is not easy for the American who sits in his Appleton home or shuttles across the continent to almost any spot his finger may designate and with a breathless swiftness, to appreciate that there are vast stretches of matted jungle all through southern Mexico, Central America and certain parts of South America, that are quite unacquainted with the peering and questioning eyes of scientists. But bands of archeologists are now roaming those lands, bitten by their snakes and insects, shot at by their savages, fevered by their pestilence and all for the purpose of bringing to life what appears to be from the few fragments already exposed, a marvelous and highly civilized society that perished for some unknown reason and whose cities even were swallowed by the jungle.

An important stumbling block at the present time is to read accurately the glyphs of the Mayas, the original people, since no Rosetta Stone has been discovered by which to translate into our language the signs, cuts and hieroglyphics of an ancient people that have gone with the wind. But the calendar glyphs have been satisfactorily interpreted, and archeologists assert with the utmost of certainty that long before the beginning of the Christian era an extensive civilization stretched through the warm and tropical areas of this western world evidenced by beautifully laid out cities in which millions of people resided and otherwise comparable in many respects to the Egyptian civilization of the period of the Sphinx and the pyramids.

The eternal question is who were these people who built impressive temples, beautifully sculptured monuments, wide and shaded plazas, carefully constructed roads rivaling in many ways those of but a recent period, and who were their engineers who transported huge blocks of stone over great distances and set them together in their temples with a precision hardly understandable?

In a recent work one of these daring archeologists claims that it was about the 4th century after Christ that the Mayan civilization became restricted and started to crumble. The cities were abandoned and finally provinces given up. Presumably the savages from the jungles closed in as the Mayas retreated. And yet no one knows whether these people were white or brown or yellow. The design of their features cut into stone indicates a rather oriental caste but leaves an impression that is altogether too vague.

The imagination tries to connect them up with Plato's story of the sunken continent of Atlantis which, tradition brought to the Greeks, sank about 9000 B. C. after a terrible series of tidal waves and earth quakes "that left the sea beyond the Pillars of Hercules un navigable for more than two years."

But these are theories, and thin although entrancing theories at that. But it is no theory that these people who certainly inhabited parts of this continent before the Christian era controlled a vast knowledge since their cities were erected without fumbling but always accorded to useful and practical design.

Traditions, usually only as valuable as a fantastic dream, connect the destruction of the Mayas with the landing upon this continent about the 4th or 5th century of a huge army of Mongols that crossed the Pacific or came down from the Bering Sea.

But there is one tradition that archeologists are following relentlessly. It is that the Mayas, seeing defeat and destruction at hand, carried their valuable libraries to a huge cave or cellar and firmly covered them over in the final gesture of a dying race to preserve for civilizations yet to come the story of their own proud accomplishments. This tradition is supported by the fact that the Mayas used books, making a paper from plant leaves processed in precisely the same way as the Egyptians made their paper called papyrus. The Mayas bound their books in animal hide, a few of which have been discovered.

These archeologists are still shaking their impious fists at an early bishop of Yucatan who gathered great rooms full of these books together and destroyed them, writing in his diary:

"And seeing that these were the lies and inventions of the devil, I caused the books and the treasures to be collected in one great pile and burned in the market place, which seemed to give the people great pain."

The pain extends down to this day and perhaps will last indefinitely.

Despite the proficiency of these ancient peoples in medicine, dentistry, geometry and engineering, no satisfactory evidence has been forthcoming that they solved any practical means of swift travel.

It is not unlikely that boats then traveled from Europe and Asia to America. The similarity of advancement made in scientific knowledge by the Egyptian and the Mayan civilizations, and at about the same time, attests to that. It is likely, of course, that in addition stout hearts, long before Eric the Red, started sailing on the endless seas and that occasionally the cruise ended safely for the appearance of Latin words in savage tongues was remarked by those who ventured out shortly after Columbus.

Yet the most interesting and certainly the highly practical thing to be found about these ancient peoples remains still hidden under impenetrable clouds. What led to their destruction? What elements, what terrible forces, human or natural, extinguished their lights and closed the doors of their tombs as an entire people lay down to die?

Did autocratic rule engender the bitterness that devoured them? Did the vices of democracy finally engulf its virtues? Or were their medical staffs lacking in the ability to overcome stealthy plagues spreading with the swiftness of the winds?

Answers to those questions are very worth while.

WHAT IS THE USE OF A CLEAN HOUSE?

The people of Nebraska have been running a double page advertisement in national publications that is quite interesting. It reads:

"Nebraska alone has no income tax, no sales tax, no luxury taxes. Its debt-free state government levies nothing to pay interest on bonds because Nebraska's constitution prohibits state bonds. Every other state has one or more extra taxes not found in Nebraska: taxes that increase the cost of living and place oppressive burdens on agriculture, labor and industry. Here is an impressive example: Thirty-seven states now collect some form of income tax. Nebraska does not. The policy of Nebraska is 'no new forms of taxation.' Thrifty Nebraska pays as it goes, limiting a modest property levy to the ability of the people to pay for proved needs. By this policy Nebraska has reduced its property tax, state and local. Encouraged by this fair tax policy, industry can grow."

For something like forty years the state of Nebraska has been listed as almost regularly liberal. When the Democrats had power its destinies were directed by the Bryans, either William J. or Charles W. Almost constantly it was under the influence, too, of Senator Norris.

There are, to be sure, radically different schools of liberals. Some, like those in Nebraska, are hard-fisted and hard-headed, practical men who do not see farms improved with quackgrass and wild mustard nor a state enriched by debts and wastage.

But if the President's Wage-Hour bill is successful Nebraska better withdraw its ads for virtue no longer will find any reward. Then the country will be distracted so that the advantages Nebraska has secured for itself through frugality and far-sightedness, through honesty and sound Americanism, will be offset to pay for the corruption of Tammany, the pollution of racketeers, and the extravagance of just plain thieves in office as represented during the reign of Big Bill the Booster in Chicago when real estate experts were paid millions and their conduct was so flagrant that the prison doors finally slammed upon them although they never returned the moneys.

Opinions Of Others

AIMED AT FORD

We deal only with the substance of a revision of the corporation surplus profits taxes which is reported seriously nearing approval in the tax sub-committee of the house ways and means committee. Corporations, for tax-paying purposes, would fall into one of three tax "baskets."

Those making less than $25,000 a year would pay the lowest regular rates on their incomes and be free from any surtaxes on profits withheld from distribution.

Those making more than $25,000 would pay higher regular rates and be assessed only lightly on undivided profits if 50 per cent or more of their stock is in the hands of the general public.

The highest regular rates and highest rates on undivided profits would apply to the large closely controlled businesses, those owned by one or a few individuals and having little or no stock outstanding.

This third group falls into the third—a new tax "basket."

Such a discrimination, if it isn't, ought to be unconstitutional.

If the inner New Deal hostility to the Ford Motor company isn't the sole explanation, it undoubtedly is a major one.

Such narrowing down to particular institutions of punitive taxation utterly dwarfs any question, should one be conceded to exist, of preference between systems of corporate organization. A blow is seemingly under serious consideration, to be struck at a business which

Because the old humble things
Of the heart
Must not be forgotten.
We live them over
As we grow older.
As memory clings.

Because someone we lost
Loitered in the doorway
To say "goodbye,"
Strange patterns play
Across the wall,
Shadows the winds have tossed.

Because no other word
Can say so much
And tinge our understanding
With that magic touch,
As that last leave-taking
Our heart has heard.

The senate had quite a time discussing Harold Ickes' bath the other day. That's the bath, you remember, said to be of blue marble finished in gold. The southern senators were really doing the discussing. As a matter of fact, it seems as though the southern senators don't like Mr. Ickes.

It might even be learned that a good many southern senators don't cut much about FDR and a lot of other people in the administration. Being a Democrat is a matter of pride in the south. The southerners really kept the party alive back when, you recall, and now they look over the ranks and see people in Democratic jobs whom they would never have invited to take a mint julep, huh, a few years ago.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

PRAYER FOR A YOUNG YEAR

Help me to walk a quiet way
Through this world's turmoil and distress;
Help me to do some good each day,
For this is happiness:

Help me to speak a kindly word!
May all the bitter quarreling cease.
May I forget the slander heard,
For this is peace!

The year is young; the days unfold,
With weariness and care I plod.
Help me to see the sunset's gold,
For this is good!

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

SIMPLE HERPES

Herpes, otherwise called "fever blisters" or "cold sores," may occur as simple herpes, trial size, or as herpes zoster commonly known as "shingles" which usually comes in hospital size.

Probably all cases of herpes are caused by a virus. In cases of herpes zoster the virus is either identical with or closely related to the virus that causes chicken-pox.

In simple herpes about the face, mouth or lip there is usually a malaise, some fever or chilliness and a vague aches and pains resembling the onset of various acute infectious diseases. Probably this explains the popular term "cold sores." The constitutional symptoms may precede the eruption a day or more. In zoster (shingles) the constitutional symptoms often precede the eruption three or four days.

Simple herpes begins with slight irritation or burning or itching, then an eruption of small vesicles, pinpoint in size, filled with clear fluid, on a swollen, reddened area. The vesicles dry up and leave brownish crusts which drop off in the course of ten days or two weeks with no scarring. Simple herpes has been inoculated from one person to another. It may be mistaken for impetigo, which will be discussed later. Herpes about the face or lip, as well as elsewhere, may be mistaken for chancre or chancre.

Frequent application of spirits of camphor or perfumed spirit (cologne water), the cologne water may have 10 grains of alum in the ounce, or one grain of zinc sulphate in the ounce, is good treatment in the early stage. Avoid oils, salves or pastes. When the lesion reaches the crusting or ulcerating stage frequent application of a non-irritating antiseptic powder such as thymol iodine is desirable. If herpes of the lip becomes cracked and slow to heal, dry it as thoroughly as possible, hold the split lip edges together with thumb and finger of one hand while you apply flexible collodion. Of course the collodion will not adhere to the moist surface of the lip, but it will keep the outer (skin) edges of the fissure or crack together, and so favor healing. This dressing must be reapplied several times a day. The less the lip moves the more promptly it heals. Women, naturally, have the greatest trouble getting cured of herpes. This is merely a statistic—I have always liked women and I like 'em still.

Zoster, shingles, or zona (meaning a band or girdle), is herpes breaking out over an area of skin supplied by a sensory nerve, most frequently an intercostal nerve (around the chest, hence the idea of girdle), but not rarely the supra-orbital (over the eye socket) nerve. There is no foundation for the popular notion that if shingles extends entirely around the trunk it will be fatal. It is just more painful than a group of herpetic vesicles on one side. In any case pain of neuralgic character precedes the eruption and sometimes leads to a false diagnosis of pleurisy of even appendicitis. In elderly persons the pain persists sometimes for weeks, even after the skin rash has healed. Painting the vesicles with flexible collodion is good treatment in the early stage. If they are broken, apply a covering of equal parts of boric acid, talcum and constrict powder and a thick layer of cotton and a snug bandage. Medical care is necessary if further treatment is required.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Sulphur Water

Please give your opinion of sulphur water—like that of Long Beach, California. From your articles I infer it might be beneficial to the hair, but it might discolor the teeth and skin. (A. R.)

Answer—If it tastes all right or if you like it, sulphur water is all right to drink. It has no permanent effect on teeth or hair.

All Babies Bow-Legged
Baby boy 21 weeks old has bow legs. I am worried. I think you had an article telling how the legs can be straightened. (Mrs. C. J. K.)

Answer—Snap fingers! Reminds me not a word about bowlegs in Better Baby Book—make a note to include it in next edition. Every baby by looks a little bow-legged in the first few months. Just see that the baby gets his sunbaths daily, or if no sunshine available, then a daily ration of the sunshine vitamin D. Send stamped envelope bearing your address for instructions. Your Birthday

"CAPRICORN"

If January 18 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:15 to 10:15 A. M.; from 1:15 to 3:15 P. M. and from 8:15 to 10:15 P. M. The danger periods are from 6:15 to 8:15 A. M.; from 3:15 to 5:15 P. M., and from 10:15 P. M. until midnight.

Your intuition may save you from making many mistakes this day, so do not ignore its urgings. Make good use of your memory and do not clutter it up with worthless thoughts. Keep clear of any kind of intrigue, for all forms of conspiracy and liasons are liable to be dangerous. It is advisable to say whatever you have to say in plain terms, so as to avoid being misunderstood. There probably will be only one person you can absolutely depend upon to do things efficiently and satisfactorily this day and that is yourself. This is a day when promises are apt to be forgotten or ruthlessly cast aside. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who are in love, should be slow in saying "yes" this day.

If a woman and January 18 is your birthday, you ought to be a very agreeable and tranquil person, with the ability to ingratiate yourself in the high favor of worthwhile friends. Your greatest fault might be an inclination to do things in a hurry. In money matters you might possibly exercise more prudence. It is important that you create the impression of being witty and gay, if you expect to be successful socially. Avoid any appearance of too much fastidiousness for this might interfere with your popularity. As a secretary, librarian, actress, interior decorator, journalist or buyer, your opportunities for success ought to be unlimited. Through the medium of matrimony happiness seems to be destined to dominate your domestic life.

The child born on January 18th usually requires a great deal of tactful handling. Inclined to be impatient, it must learn to be patient, and to curb an excessive amount of curiosity. There is every indication that this youngster will become successful and prosperous upon reaching maturity.

If a man and January 18 is your natal day, free yourself from prejudices and malice, if you wish to succeed. As a lawyer, dentist, astronomer, botanist, author, banker, salesman or manufacturer you should come out of life's battle with flying colors.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—That blinding glare down on Grove street merely reflects the decision of Ben Collada to put the quietest on noisy guests whose conduct at the club El Chico makes it difficult for the actors to do their stuff. Before getting out my smoked glasses I got a glimpse of Ben reaching for the switchboard and he explained the whole story:

"Sometimes when six or eight guests sit at one table they get pretty noisy. Often they resent it if a waiter requests them not to make so much noise. On such occasions they sometimes want to take a poke at the waiter, and that is not good, because one cannot run a night club properly if one's waiters are to be used as punching bags. No? So I sit down in a corner and think about it for a long time, and finally I get the inspiration.

"I get the idea suddenly one night while I am sipping my third cup of coffee, and the next morning, when everything is quiet, I call in the electricians and we install powerful spotlights above every table in the house. Now, when a party becomes too loud we simply halt the show, darken the house, and turn a powerful floodlight on them. I can tell you they stop talking in a hurry. And everything is fine, because there is no waiter for anyone to punch in the nose, and they are too embarrassed to do anything but sit still and hope that the lights will go out very soon."

You may a swell abandon your hopes of ever catching him at a loss for something to say, but you may be perfectly sure that when he is bawling you out it will be won so adroitly that you will be under the impression that he is really agreeing with you and that you are right in everything you think or do.

One night some guests ordered a large dinner with wine, and after the bill was tabulated there was a house protest at the part set aside for the government tax.

"This is outrageous," exclaimed the angry diner, "and I resent it. It is unfair and un-American."

"Sir, I agree with you," purred Senator Collada. "You have every right to become angry whenever you wish and if you do not wish to pay it, why, that is all right with me too. All I asked is that you sign this little paper saying that you refused to pay the tax, and I will turn it over to the government and let them worry about collecting it. You see, it is nothing to me, except there is a law saying that a certain tax percentage must be paid, and this little paper with your signature will relieve me of all responsibility."

So far, there hasn't been a single signature turned in.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—One of our admiring readers (Hi, Joe) has suggested that we tell the touring public where and how to see the governmental big-wigs in Washington and it does seem the public is entitled to know. We would like it if we could tell you that on Tuesdays and Sundays our major figures will be on exhibit in the zoological park from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., in cages 11 to 77, inclusive, with a card for each telling age, sex, nativity and by whom donated to the government. But it is not so, and that is perhaps too bad, for they could be fed peanuts and bits of stale bread and questioned as to why Snohomish did not get a new postoffice.

Nevertheless a zealous tourist with the patience of an Audubon and a bit of spare cash can satisfy his inner yearnings with full or fleeting glimpses of even the finer specimens of official payroll. More prevalent types, such as representatives and senators, can be seen singly or in large bands at almost any hour of the day, and often at night.

Hoover's Hard To Spot

There are limitations, of course. Persons wishing to see President Roosevelt eating hot dogs at a roadside stand or J. Edgar Hoover leading a raid on some well publicized criminal are likely to be disappointed. The President doesn't often eat hot dogs, contrary to popular belief, and in Washington rarely appears in public. He takes no regular drive but occasionally on Sundays goes to St. Thomas church just off Connecticut avenue, a half dozen blocks from the White house.

These goings and comings are rarely announced, so as to avoid crowds, and that is where time and patience come in. Sometimes he dedicates buildings and in spring and summer drives to the navy yard to board the White House yacht.

If you are a newspaperman you can see the President two times a week at press conferences but the Hon. J. Darlington Peddie, state senator from Westbury, visiting Washington with his family, will fare best watching for the news reels.

Just why J. Edgar Hoover should be so hard to see is a bit beyond us, but he is. When he drives to work, his car, without stopping, is swallowed up in the caverns of the Department of Justice building (Attorney General Homer Cummings works there too), where he is whisked up to his fifth floor office on a non-stop elevator. However, he often walks to work down Pennsylvania or Constitutional avenue between 8 and 9 a. m. from his home beyond the Library of Congress.

About 1 p. m. he strolls across the street to lunch at the Willard on Pennsylvania and 14th, a block or two from the White house.

Garner Is Easy

He has dinner at Harvey's a fish house on Connecticut avenue. A watchful visitor can see him at those times. Be looking for a short-fellow, darkish but not swarthy, and he won't be carrying a tommy-gun. He doesn't go out much nights but occasionally on week-ends files to New York.

Probably easiest to see of all is Vice President Garner, national figure No. 2. He wanders around the Capitol building, on the senate end, and tourists are permitted to run at large in the capitol. He lives at the Washington hotel, across block from the White house. He doesn't walk the streets but he and Mrs. Garner breakfast often in the hotel's coffee shop, open to the public. Get there early, by 8 o'clock at least, and if you can make your ham and egg last quite a while your chances are good. Look for the most amazing pair of eyebrows in the world. Beneath and to the rear of them is Garner.

I'll give you some more low-down on where to see the Washington high-ups tomorrow.

You're not half thru with Winter, so see these Overcoat values today!

Last Winter didn't start until February and this March is going to call for Overcoats like the furnace calls for coal.

And if you can use an overcoat, don't overlook this chance to see these, for it's like being paid to kiss a pretty girl.

These are fine, sound, beautiful overcoats . . . the sort you've always wanted to own . . . and we're selling them at these prices because we own too many for this time of year and you don't own enough.

The Consequences of the Panay Affair

Enough time has elapsed since the sinking of the Panay to justify a preliminary appraisal of the effect of that exceedingly grave incident. To be sure the incident is in a diplomatic sense closed. But the consequences have been far-reaching and no statesman here or abroad can afford to ignore them in his calculations.

The bombing of the Panay has, I believe, profoundly affected American public opinion. It has brought to an end the wholly abnormal notion that the American people would stand for anything short of an actual invasion of the American continent. It has obliterated all significant opposition to a resolute and substantial increase of American naval power. And it has disclosed the undeclared but certain and inescapable community of interest between the United States, Britain and other unaggressive states.

Probably Attacked First
Test of Will, Power

There are very strong reasons for believing that the Japanese officers who ordered the attack on the Panay meant to prove to the Chinese and to the other peoples of Asia that the United States was impotent and incapable of account. The attack was too deliberately organized to be regarded as the isolated act of crazy men. In all probability the Panay was attacked in order to test out our will and our power.

We may infer that this was the purpose because in the summer, before the invasion of China, the Japanese had already tested out the Russian attitude by a similar device, by sinking a Russian warship on the Amur river. They had found Russia non-resistant. A few months later they tested out the British by shooting the British Ambassador and again the maneuver was effective; the British were unable to reply. So there remained only the United States, and in the eyes of the Japanese military adventures it was necessary to demonstrate by a gross injury that the United States was impotent too.

The coup was not nearly so successful as the preceding coups against the Russians and British. The Japanese government in Japan and the more responsible military men as well realized instantly that the United States is a very great power in the Pacific, and that, in spite of the sentiment reflected in the neutrality act and the Ludlow resolution, the American people cannot safely be provoked too much. As a result the American attitude in the Panay affair showed that no one can prudently assume that Americans will buy peace at any price.

No One Can Assume That U. S. Would Help

No one can assume that now, no one in Asia, no one in Europe, it is of the utmost importance that this fact should be properly understood in the capitals of all the great powers.

It may not be understood. There is a possibility that in London and in the thought of that men will jump to the conclusion that we may now be counted upon as allies because we have shown that we might fight. That would be a mistake. There is no ground whatever for thinking that the United States would fight for the integrity of China or for the independence of central Europe, for the preservation of democracy abroad or for collective security. No one can safely assume that the United States would go to war except in reply to a direct and vital injury to equally American interests.

It is especially important that the American people should realize in Tokyo, Berlin and Rome that there are specific and vital American interests in all parts of the world, that almost certainly they would be seriously affected by any great war, and that the likelihood of America's submitting to gross injuries is not very great. In plain terms, no one can safely state that a great war in Asia or Europe without facing the probability that eventually America will be forced to intervene.

Truths Should Have
Some Real Effect

If these truths sink home they should have some sobering effect upon those who may be contemplating war-like adventures. In the meantime they should note that inevitably and naturally, by the sheer force of interest, sympathy and common conceptions, the bonds of solidarity between this people and the other free peoples are growing closer and stronger.

One need not read more into the event than is intended to know that the visit of the American cruisers to the British naval base at Singapore is an outward sign of a necessary development in Anglo-American relations. It symbolizes the fact that there is no longer any Japanese advance, that there is a point at which advance would be met by the combined power of Britain and her dominions, of France and of the Netherlands. The visit to Singapore is only a little gesture. But it is fully as significant as the more loudly advertised gestures by which the more war-like states conduct their diplomacy.

Current Negotiations
Have Great Significance

The current negotiations for a trade agreement with the United Kingdom are even more significant. If they are successful, and one can hardly imagine a British government foolish enough to let them fail, the effect will be to augment considerably the economic interdependence not only of the United States, but of the United States and the Dominions.

For in substance such an agreement must mean more American exports of farm products and raw materials to the British Isles, more exports of British manufactures to the United States, more exports of American manufactures to Canada, more exports of Canadian primary products to this country. Thus the effect of the agreement will be to end make the British commonwealth and the United States depend much more upon one another for the maintenance of a higher standard of life, and, as respects

Brewers Rally in Final Period to Beat Pantry Team

Hold Opponents Scoreless While Making 6 Points in Last Quarter

City League	W.	L.
Standings:
Mellow Brews	1	0
Pulpmakers	1	0
Gustmans	1	0
Pantry Lunch	0	1
Kavanaugh's	0	1
Greenwoods	0	1

This week's results—
Mellow Brews, 20, Pantry Lunch, 17.
Pulpmakers, 12, Kavanaugh's 11.
Gustmans 21, Greenwoods 15.

Kaukauna—The Mellow Brews picked up where they left off last half and started on their way to repeating as champions of the city basketball league by defeating the Pantry Lunch five, 20 to 17, in a close battle yesterday. The Brews, behind most of the game, won by scoring six points in the last period while holding the Pantry Lunch scoreless. The Pulpmakers edged out the Kavanaugh's, 12 to 11, and the Gustmans won easily over the Greenwoods, 21 to 15, to keep pace with the Brews.

The Mellow Brews spotted the Lunchers a 10 to 5 margin at the half, as Kramer sank three and Koehne two buckets for them while baskets by Derus and Bloch and Kalah's gilt toss were the Brew score. In the second period the champs made five points, but the Lunchers one, to give the Pantry quintet an 11 to 10 margin at the half. At the close of the third period the Lunchers increased their edge to 17-14.

As the last quarter opened Derus followed in for two points and George Bloch tossed one from mid-floor. With a minute to play George Bloch clinched the game by sinking two free throws on Dix's foul.

Game Is Close
The Pulpmakers had a hard time shading the Kavanaugh's. Neither team had much luck with their shots, the Kavanaugh's making only two points the first half and the Pulpmakers making only three the last half. The Pulpmakers led, 9 to 2, as the first half closed, but the Barbers came back to narrow the margin at 11-9 as the last period started. Ken Vil's free throw, the Pulpmakers only counter in that period, was the winning margin. R. Mooney's sleeper brought the Kavanaugh's back to 11.

McFadden and the Greenwoods and Sager for Gustmans tested buckets from the free throw line, but the only counters of the first period. The Gustmans took a 9 to 4 margin at the half on the strength of C. Koch's two baskets, Eiting's one and Jacobson's charity toss. Killgas long one being the only Greenwood counter.

The Gustmans piled up 12 points to the Greenwoods' 4 in the third quarter, making the count 21 to 8 as the final period opened. McFadden sank two long ones, Verbeelen a short and Grogan a free throw to bring the Greenwood score to 15. The Gustmans were held without a point in the last frame.

MASS PRODUCTION
Los Angeles—(P)—The Goodwill Industries was found to give needy persons odds and ends of useful employment, but it is now approaching the big business stage. The organization has announced that it will build a three-story plant at a cost of $164,000.

Seek Full House for City Booster Meeting Friday
Kaukauna—With the mass booster meeting for Kaukauna only four days away, all efforts are being made to secure a full house for the event. The meeting, open to all adults of Kaukauna and vicinity, will begin at 8 o'clock Friday evening in the high school auditorium.

The booster meeting, called by Mayor Lewis F. Nelson a get-together of business, labor and agriculture for the benefit of the community, is sponsored by the community council and the Kaukauna Advancement association.

A program of instruction and entertainment has been arranged. Three University of Wisconsin professors will speak, and the high school band and chorus will give selections.

Professor R. J. Colbert of the department of economics will discuss the development of the resources of the city of Kaukauna relative to the creation of more jobs, the starting of more industries and the expansion and development of industries already here.

Professor Andrew Hopkins of the agricultural department will talk on community and farm cooperation and development, and Dean Frank O. Holt of the extension division will speak on "Teamwork."

No admission charge will be made. The meeting is being held on the principle that no single man or group can by their own efforts improve general conditions here, but that the cooperation of business, labor and farming is needed.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

MARY LOU ISLEIB
Shirley's Stand-In Makes Friends With Some Studio Chickens

BY ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood—Three years ago little Mary Lou Isleib of Glendale changed her coiffure.

Instead of wearing her blonde, wavy hair parted simply in the middle, Mary Lou began a ritual every night before going to bed she had her locks curled neatly around 70 "bobbie pins," and each morning Mary Lou awoke with 70 neat little curls piled on her shapely head.

Over the country hundreds of other little girls were subjected to the same procedure. Proud mammae were turning out hundreds of imitations of Shirley Temple. Of them all, Mary Lou was the only one with a solid, practical reason. She was Shirley Temple's stand-in—and still is.

A Friendly Proposition
The job includes, naturally, being Shirley's best friend and playmate. And that is why Mary Lou was chosen when Shirley Temple's hair was changed.

The Temples and the Isleibs have been friends some 15 years. George Temple, Shirley's father, and Harry Isleib, Mary Lou's, worked in the same bank. When Shirley needed a stand-in, and the Temples were very particular about the family from which she came, Mrs. Temple went to Mrs. Isleib. Mary Lou, when the question was put to her, was all in favor.

Today Mary Lou, who'll be 10 years old next June, enjoys many of the advantages of film stardom with none of the disadvantages.

Saving Her Money
Her earnings don't touch Shirley's—a stand-in makes about $50 a week—but Mary Lou gets a regular allowance of $1 weekly to spend as she pleases. (Shirley isn't in allowance when she wants something she asks for it.) Shirley's money is being saved; so is Mary Lou's. And the little girl has the fun of studio life without the handicap of the publicity.

Nine months older than Shirley, Mary Lou also is two inches taller. They are in the same grade—A-4.

In the 20th Century Fox studio school, like Mrs. Temple, Mrs. Isleib always is present when the children are on the set. At home in Glendale, Mary Lou plays with the neighborhood children like any other little girl. Shirley has to have a bodyguard.

Shy With Strangers
Rather shy with strangers, Mary Lou is more aggressive among children, and she has no more awe of the child movie star than Shirley.

Stephenville Woman Injured in Accident
Stephenville—Mrs. Henry Erker caught her left hand in the wringer of a washing machine, at her home Friday. Several bones were broken and the hand was badly lacerated. It was necessary to have several stitches taken.

Students at the Stephenville school with an average of 90 or over include: Anthony Bohman, Ethel Steidl, Lyle Patrick, Rose Elaine Dorschner, William Bohman. Basketball has been the chief source of recreation for the students since the auditorium has been available. After a few more instruction periods the group will be ready to participate with other schools. Coach Delphus Sipe has declared.

Ten tables of schafkopf were in play at Erke hall Friday evening.

DePere Squad to Play at Kaukauna
Kaukauna—Coach Paul E. Little's Kaukauna High school cagers will play their second of three conference games scheduled within a week here tomorrow evening, meeting the strong West DePere quintet. The visitors have dropped but two games this year, and those were by close margins to Shawano and Neenah, the two league leaders. Friday night the Kaws will journey to Neenah to close the first half of their conference schedule.

It is doubtful if the Kaws can win their second conference victory against Phantom's Against Clintonville last Friday the Kaws had enough shots, but made only a small percentage of them. The taller players from West DePere will no doubt control the ball at least their share of the time.

It may be said, however, that the Kaws have set to play the game of which they are capable, and if they do so tomorrow night a win is probable. Vanervenoven and Peterson will start at forward, Alger at center and Giordana and Lambie at guard. The Kaws have a five with every man carrying a scoring threat, and four high point men this season. Carl Giordana has scored few points but has taken very few tries at the basket, in the name with the Trucks not shooting once.

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Mertes barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. William Dowling is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

Schell Hits 686 To Set Pace for Fraternal League

Kaukauna—Charles Schell cracked the maples for a series of 686, including a high game of 279, as the Moose took two of three from the Moloch's in Saturday night's rolling in the Fraternal league. Schell's other games were 201 and 206, and his series the highest in league bowling this year. C. Splan hit 553 for the Moloch on games of 177, 167 and 208.

The league leading Kaukauna Knights of Columbus lost no ground to the Moose, for they also took two of three from the Masons. C. Brandt hit 194, 174 and 193 for 561 to pace the Knights, with J. Krahn's 483 topping the Masons.

The Greenwoods swept their three games with the Elks. Bill Beda's hitting 526 on 213, 177 and 138 to lead the Greenwood attack. N. Gerend's counts of 183, 151 and 210 for 544 led the losers.

In the final match of the evening the Hollandtown K.C.'s took two of three from the Foresters. Crevier's 561 on 167, 235 and 159 led the Knights, and Ed Maule's 511 on 146, 161 and 204 the Foresters.

Kaukauna Girls Cage Squad Wins

Defeats Green Bay Team, 8 to 3, For First Victory of Season

Kaukauna—The Kaukauna Merchants girls basketball team, won their first victory of the season here yesterday afternoon, defeating the strong Gordon Bent squad of Green Bay, 8 to 3. The Green Bay team held a previous decision over the Merchants, winning at Green Bay last week, 12 to 8.

Panabaker's short shot was the only score of the first quarter giving the Merchants a 2 to 0 margin. In the second period Miller and Panabaker sank free throws for Kaukauna and Lawler made two gift tosses for Green Bay to make it 4 to 2 at the half. D. Timmers scored for Kaukauna and Lotus made a free throw for Green Bay in the third period, with D. Timmer's second basket in the last quarter clinching the game for the Merchants.

Two Menasha Pin Teams Turn Back Invading Squads

Standard Oil Beats Weyauwega: Stadtmuellers Trims Clintonville

Menasha—The Standard Oil and Stadtmueller Grocer bowling teams defeated invading fives Sunday at the Hendy alleys, the Standard Oil team scoring a 2,443 to 2,408 victory over the Standard Oils of Weyauwega and the Stadtmueller team beating Laumermans of Clintonville.

Harry Sheerin had a 207 game and 553 series to pace the Menasha oil team. Other scores were: Ted Lucas, 468; Earl Sander, 449; Claude Wilmet, 473; and Bernard Wilmet, 502. Game scores were 765, 870 and 608.

The Weyauwega team was topped by D. Kadolph's 558. Other scores were G. Chick, 492; H. Metzger, 413; W. Brown, 506; and J. Andrews, 459. Their game scores were 808, 799 and 801.

Stadtmueller's took three from the Laumerman team to even the series. J. Knorr and E. Christensen had 200 series to top the grocers. Series marks were J. Knorr, 538; E. Christensen, 434; L. Porsche, 453; E. Christensen, 529; and W. Christensen, 550.

The Laumerman scores were E. Rosenfeld, 468; C. Schroeder, 476; H. Finch, 512; E. Harky, 504; and J. B. Melzer, 487. Game scores were 804, 838 and 802 for the grocers.

The Chilton team had A. Schaeffer, 506; W. Endolf, 583; W. Schumacher, 512; M. Casper, 623; and E. Hrochne, 562.

In a special "grudge" match following their games against out of town opponents, the Stadtmueller team defeated the Standard Oil team by 10 pins, 2,481 to 2,471. Sauter had a 226 and E. Wilmet a 213 for the oil while E. Christensen had a 240 to top the grocers. E. Thorson had a 203 for the grocers also.

Menasha Officials Roll

2,139 Total in Tourney

Menasha—(P)—The city's official representatives in the Fox River Valley bowling tournament which ended Saturday at Fond du Lac, did not fare so well. Hayer W. E. Held had a 448 score while the scores of the alternates included C. J. Oberweiser, 464; George Stulp, 384; Edward Zeininger, 492; and John Eckrich, 351. The team total was 2,139.

Menasha Personal

Norbert Brehm, 741 Sixth street, Menasha, has tonsils removed this morning at Theda Clark hospital.

Lake Winnebago Now Only Legal Area for Hook, Line Fishing

Menasha—Lake Winnebago is the only body of water in the state of Wisconsin where hook and line fishing now may be continued legally, according to Albert F. Dunham, conservation warden. Ice fishing on Lake Poygan, Little Lake Butte des Morts, Lake Butte des Morts, Winneconne, the Wolf and Fox rivers closed Saturday night.

The sturgeon spawning season opened on Lake Winnebago on Saturday also. The season limit is five and the warden called attention to the fact that a tag, which can be secured from the warden's office for 5 cents, must be affixed to the sturgeon's tail as soon as it is caught.

Both the spearing and the hook and line fishing season will extend to March 15, unless the ice is broken up prior to that time. In the latter event, the season will close as last year, March 1.

William Resch Is High Scorer for Menasha Cagers

Guard Has Record of 36 Points in Conference Competition

Neenah Sextet Beats Green Bay In First Contest

Donald Jape, Vernon Schultz Score in Hockey Tilt Saturday

Neenah—The Neenah High school hockey sextet defeated East Green Bay, 2 to 1, Saturday morning on the Washington park rink to win its first game of the season.

The Rocket pucksters took a 2-point lead over the Green Bay rinkmen before the visitors were able to get the puck past Goalie George Johnson.

Donald Jape, right wing, scored Neenah's first point, unassisted, in the second period, and Vernon Schultz, center, returned in the third period to push another point into the goal. Christensen of Green Bay scored East's only point late in the third period.

Only about 20 spectators watched the game. Coach Marvin Olsen's pucksters turned in a good performance for their initial tilt, despite the fact they had only three or four workouts.

The Rockets' starting lineup included: Johnson, goalie; Schultz, center; Harvey Koerwitz and Alvin Stafford, defense, and Jack Meyer and Jape, wings. Others who saw action were Richard Larson, Charles Reedhauser, Richard Lember, Lester Stephan, Paul Felton, Earl Hauke, Elmer Anderson, Robert Ryan, and John Meyer. Norman Jensen was referee.

Twin City Deaths

JOHN RAPPERT, SR.

Menasha—John Rappert, Sr., 73, was found dead in bed at his home, 647 Kenemac street, Saturday afternoon by his son John, Jr., 907 Plank road, and other members of the family. Mr. Rappert had been seen as usual Friday afternoon and evening. When he was not seen Saturday night his wife notified the son. The doctor was removed to gain admittance to the house.

A local physician and Dr. G. A. Steele, Winnebago county coroner, who viewed the body agreed that death, which came early Saturday morning, was due to natural causes.

Mr. Rappert was born in Germany on May 5, 1864, and came to the United States and Menasha in 1903. For many years he had been a city employee.

Funeral services will be held at 8:30 Tuesday morning at the Laemmrich Funeral home and at 9 o'clock at St. John church. Burial will be in St. John cemetery. The Rev. S. A. Elbert will conduct the services. The body will be at the funeral home until the hour of the services.

Survivors are two daughters, Mrs. Joseph Wroblewski, Amherst, Wis., and Miss Clara Rappert, Milwaukee, and seven sons, John, Leo, Felix, Walter, Frank, Ben and Joe, all of Menasha.

MENASHA MAN FINED

Neenah—Jack DeLong, 196 Fourth street, Menasha, was fined $10 and costs when he pleaded guilty of speeding when arraigned before Justice L. O. Cooke in court this morning. DeLong was arrested by police Saturday night and charged with traveling 38 miles an hour on N. Commercial street.

COUNCIL TO MEET

Neenah—The Neenah city council will hold its second meeting of the month at 7:30 Tuesday night at the city hall. Only routine business is scheduled.

It Is Said--

That members of the city officials bowling team which completed the opening contests of the Fox River Valley bowling tournament at Fond du Lac Saturday afternoon are so quiet about their scores or the outcome of their matches that it is suspected that the results weren't so good. The team was made up of Mayor Edwin A. Kalfahs, City Treasurer W. H. Loehning, City Engineer A. G. Prunuske, Roman Hauser of the city clerk's office, and Lawrence Kitchen of the engineer's department.

Police Follow Trail Of Blood but Window Breaker Can't be Found

Menasha—Menasha police were confronted with a minor mystery and a trail of blood stretching for several miles Sunday morning. Sometime after 3:30 Sunday morning an unknown person broke the plate glass window in the door of the Menasha Lumber and Fuel company office, 504 Third street.

The person apparently suffered a severe cut from the trail of blood. He made no attempt to enter the office. The trail led to the Island down Ahnaip and Walnut streets to Nicolet boulevard, from Fourth to Ninth streets on the Neenah side of the boulevard, down ninth to E. Forest avenue and then back to Fifth street. There the trail was made. A check of all doctor's offices was made but no one received medical assistance.

68 Junior High School Students Join in Ski Trip

Menasha Party Hikes to Appleton Hills for Afternoon Outing

Menasha—Sixty-eight students of the junior high school participated in a hiking and skiing trip to Appleton hills Saturday afternoon under the supervision of John Novakowski, member of the junior high faculty. The students made the 2 1/2 mile jaunt to the hills where 2 hours of skiing and sledding were held. Students acting as captains were George Overby, Paul Friedland and Ruth Sewall.

Mr. Novakowski pointed out the benefits afforded the students by engaging in such activities since it gives them an opportunity to give vent to youthful exuberance under careful supervision and at the same time enables them to make associations and unite ideas.

To further stimulate the aims a hobby group and a dramatics group are being organized. A skating party was planned for this Monday afternoon. With the completion of the new gym an intramural athletic program will be fostered. It is planned to have every student in the junior high school participating in some organized activity.

Those participating in the skiing trip included Robert Booth, Delores Jahr, Regina Rusch, Louis Tremmel, Susan Spengler, Shirley Hoffman, Marion DeBrail, Maurice Dyer, Carl Anderson, Loran Hurley, Jeanette Jensen, Gloria Kutz, Bonnie Mae Franz, Amy Brazmeier, William Thompson, Jean Malinowski, Elaine Johnson, Barbara Clinton, Harlan Schuelke, Elmer Marx, Robert St. Marie, Robert Drephal, Edith Schmidtke, Gerald Villwock, Elizabeth Eck, Mary Pettigill, Sylvester Brizke.

Old Weapons on Display At Neenah High School

Neenah—A display of old rifles and bayonets is exhibited in the Neenah High school show case by Roy Sorenson, 315 W. Forest avenue, Neenah.

Some of the 11 guns shown in the display were collected by Sorenson's grandfather, a Menasha resident who died two years ago. Roy inherited the armament. Others were collected by Roy's uncle, Arthur Gutzman, Menasha, and the rest were picked up by Roy himself.

Included in the collection are several muzzle loaders, a Mexican rifle, an old German army rifle, and a Belgian rifle.

The latest addition to the collection is a Read Twist, a muzzle loader, which Roy purchased from a friend for 50 cents. The aged gun recently was dug up at the water works.

The Mexican gun was given to Roy by his uncle. Roy said that his uncle and a companion were walking through a deserted street in Vera Cruz several years ago when a Mexican took a shot at his uncle's companion. The Mexican missed and dropped the gun and ran away. Gutzman took the gun.

Conduct Clinics For Vaccinating Neenah Children

Neenah—Students of Washington, Kimberly and Trinity Lutheran grade schools were vaccinated for smallpox at a clinic this morning at Washington school.

This afternoon pupils in Roosevelt, and St. Patrick's schools were vaccinated at a clinic at Roosevelt school.

A clinic will be held for Lincoln and McKinley at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning at Lincoln school, and high school students will be vaccinated at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon at the high schools.

Students who are unable to produce a recent certificate of vaccination must be vaccinated or be excluded from attending school for 14 days starting today. The clinics are being conducted by Dr. Frank O. Bruckner, city health officer, other Neenah doctors and Miss L. Evelyn Scholl, city and school nurse.

The vaccinations were ordered by the state health department when a Lincoln grade school boy contracted smallpox.

Father Schemmer Lauds Holy Name Society at Silver Jubilee Dinner

A CROWD OF NEARLY 300 men and young men, celebrating the silver jubilee anniversary of the St. Joseph's Holy Name society at a banquet last night, heard the Rev. George Schemmer, pastor of St. Francis Xavier cathedral in Green Bay, say that the society has "caught the attention not only of the city but of the entire diocese by its outstanding work."

Praising the society for "carrying on despite difficult years" and lauding the leadership of the late Rev. Camillus Becker, Father Schemmer, principal speaker at last night's banquet, declared: "The accomplishments of the society during the last 25 years must be continued. I have faith and confidence in you and I know you will."

The basis of the Holy Name society, the reason for its formation and for the celebration of 25 years of work is the "name which was brought down from heaven to the earth," the speaker said. "The name of Jesus has a power with it. We should keep our eyes on that name. It is explanatory and directing. There is no salvation except in the name of Jesus."

Father Schemmer followed the Rev. Cyprian Ablar, O. M. Cap., pastor of the St. Joseph's church, who traced the history of the parish society founded March 2, 1913.

"We have a great task in order to be worthy of the past," the Father Cyprian said. "I'm glad to see so many men present here tonight."

The Holy Name society is a strong indication of the life of a parish, he stated. "We may look back with pride on the 25 years of the existence of this group."

The pastor reviewed the society's development, its surrounding of obstacles, and remarked that the "young men who were brought in gave it much of its energy."

Speak Briefly Raymond P. Lang, president of the society, introduced the toastmaster, Gustave Keller. Both the retiring president, Lawrence Schreier, and Mr. Lang spoke briefly.

During his address, Father Cyprian introduced the living past presidents of the society, all of whom were present at last night's silver jubilee banquet. The first two presidents, Henry Schmitz and Henry Schuetter, are dead.

The past presidents introduced last night and the years they served follow: Fred Stoffel, 1918 to 1924; Frank Groh, 1924 to 1928; Max Bauer, 1928 to 1932; Louis Schweitzer, 1932 to 1936; Henry Tullman, 1936 to 1938; P. Dohr, 1938; Gustave Keller, 1931; Leo Rechner, 1932; Joseph Weber, 1933; Dr. R. G. Van Susteren, 1934; Theodore Sanders, 1935; Joseph Dohr, 1936; Lawrence Schreier, 1937.

Anton Koehne, who served as financial secretary when the society was founded, is now treasurer.

The Rev. Martin Voebeck, Green Bay, diocesan spiritual director, talked briefly, announcing that a meeting of the speakers bureau would be held at Green Bay late this month. The Rev. Pacificus Raith, former guardian of St. Joseph's church and now of Milwaukee, and Joseph Doerflinger, Kimberly, diocesan Holy Name president, spoke.

Messages of congratulation were received from the following pastors and read at the banquet: the Rev. P. Crescentino Voelpel, O. M. Cap., the Rev. Gaudentius Rossmann, both of Detroit, the Rev. Basil Gummermann, Marathon City, Joseph Meusik, O. M. Cap., Milwaukee.

Mrs. Helen Pleier sang three solos, "Ave Maria," "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," and "Die Welt Ist Mein." Her accompanist was Walter Kaphingst. Community singing was led by Cyril Theiss and dinner music was presented by the Appleton Civic orchestra directed by Milton Herberg. The dinner was served by the Christian Mothers society.

Members of the clergy present were the Very Rev. Theodore Roemer, O. M. Cap., the Rev. Urban Mueller, O. M. Cap., the Rev. Clarence Grosser, O. M. Cap., the Rev. Albert McParland, O. M. Cap., the Rev. Herman Buss, O. M. Cap., the Rev. John J. Heuer, O. M. Cap., the Rev. Gilbert Heuer, O. M. Cap., director of Monte Alverno Retreat House; the Rev. Herman Schmitz, New Franken.

Arbor Day Program and Party Held at Synagog

Rabbi Ralph DeKoven, spiritual leader of Moses Montefiore congregation, gave a talk on Jewish Arbor day at a program and party in honor of the festival last night at the social center of Montefiore synagogue. Teddy Slater sang two solos accompanied by David Bliss. About 100 persons attended the event.

Cards were played after the program, prizes at bridge going to Mrs. R. Payne, Mrs. Peter Ott and Mrs. H. Lofgren. The committee in charge which includes members of Ladies Aid society was composed of Mrs. Irving Cohen, chairman; Mrs. Adolph Hamilton Mrs. Abe Hamilton, Mrs. L. Binder and Mrs. S. Chudacoff.

Mrs. Sarah Lowell Will Be Hostess to Circle

Mrs. Sarah Lowell will be hostess to Lecture Study circle at 2:15 Tuesday afternoon at the home of her sister, Mrs. Ella Hodgins, W. Fifth street. Each member will contribute something to the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Miles entertained their bridge club Sunday night at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kreiss, 408 N. Wood street. Prizes were won by E. P. Kasche and Mr. and Mrs. Palmer McConnell. In two weeks the club will meet with Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Christiansen, 1523 Ravinia place.

WOMEN'S AILMENTS

Detroit, Mich.—Mrs. Herman King, 1228 Calmet St., says: "I was very nervous and weak and each month my suffering would increase that I could not do anything for several days. After taking Dr. Pierce's Food for Women, my appetite increased and I gained strength, my nerves were calm and I felt fine." Buy it from your druggist today. New size, tablets 50c.

SPEAKERS AT HOLY NAME SILVER JUBILEE DINNER

In the above picture is a segment of the speakers' table at the Silver Jubilee banquet of the Holy Name society of St. Joseph's church held last night.

Hundreds Flock to Hills To Enjoy Winter Sports

THE Appleton residents who are scanning travel pamphlets with alluring pictures of southern flower gardens and sunny beaches these days in preparation for trips to warmer climates are definitely in the minority. If there were any doubt that the people of this vicinity enjoyed as they should the opportunity for winter sports which this region offers them, it must have been dispelled yesterday, when hundreds of them flocked to the hills and fields for skiing and tobogganing.

One of the largest crowds was that at Butte des Morts Golf club, which was doing as thriving a business as it does at the height of the golf season in summer. There were probably more cars parked there yesterday than there are at a ladies' guest day or a major golf tournament.

In one of the skiing parties were Dr. and Mrs. Stephen Konz, Mr. and Mrs. William Plank, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Brown and Bob Lally, son of Dr. and Mrs. R. R. Lally. The group went to the Brown home on W. Prospect avenue afterward for ping-pong.

Tobogganing were Dr. and Mrs. Robert T. McCarthy and their daughter, Mary, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Rosebaugh and their children, Philip and Larry. The Rosebaughs were guests of the McCartys for dinner and afterward at the latter's home on E. Commercial street.

There isn't enough winter here for Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Durham, 436 Riverway, Menasha, who have reversed the usual procedure and gone north instead of south for a January vacation. They left Friday for Canada and plan to participate in the winter sports program at Quebec. They will also stop at Lake Placid before returning home in about two weeks.

Guests at the sleighride which Barbara Carlson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Guy W. Carlson, 628 N. Leminwah street, gave Saturday afternoon were James Hockings, Jean Wheeler, Gene Gerhauser, Joan Heller, Marian Gallaher, Shirley Rodtke, Lois Mielke, Dorothy Kuehnstedt, Ann Huert, Jean Gallaher, Jean Ballard, Donald Brookman, Carol Hartwig, Carol Busch, Emmy Lou Hubbard, Alice Ann Hammer, Betty Lou Barber, Marvin Farmer, Billy Bartman, Sumner Parker, Adrian Dick, Fritz Heinemann, Jane Mitchell and Bonnie Jackson. Miss Mary Christine Cox and Miss Marion Carlson were chaperons.

Circle 7 which is explained by Mrs. Fannie Spencer will meet at 2:15 Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. R. Challoner, 300 S. Oneida street.

"Stages on the Road" by Sigrid Undset is the book to be reviewed by Mrs. Theodore Brunke at the meeting of St. Theresia Study club at 7:30 Tuesday night at the parish hall. Hostesses will be Mrs. Harvey Kitter and Mrs. Joseph Hilger.

Senior Walter League of Mt. Olive Lutheran church will meet at 7:45 this evening in the church parlors. Miss Ella Brejle will present the topic, "Biblical Background."

The annual meeting of the congregation of Mt. Olive Lutheran church will be held at 7:45 Wednesday evening at the church.

The Rev. Horace W. Parsons, assistant pastor of First Congregational church, will give an address at the church night worship service at 7:15 Thursday night at the church. His subject will be "What is Religious Living?"

Circle Ruth of First Baptist church will meet at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Susan Collins, 1034 W. Harris street. Mrs. A. M. Piekard will lead devotions and White Cross work will be done.

Negro Lyric Soprano to Give Recital

MISS CATHERINE Van Buren, foremost Negro lyric soprano, will appear in recital at 4:30 next Sunday afternoon at First Congregational church. She will be accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Nettie Fullinwider.

Trained in the Fisk university choir whose men are represented by the tenor, Roland Hayes, Miss Van Buren sang her four years at the university, singing at concerts in Symphony hall, Boston, Carnegie hall, New York, and other cities. She is a graduate of Oberlin Conservatory of Music and has been instructor on the faculties of music departments of Shaw university, Raleigh, N. C., and Talladega college, Talladega, Ala.

Miss Van Buren has been guest soloist annually for the Fisk spring musical festival and guest soloist for the Oberlin cappella choir. She was "discovered" nationally by Congregationalists at the general council meeting at Oberlin, Ohio, in 1934 when she was council soloist and she sang at the National Conference of Congregational and Christian Executive Boards in Evanston, Ill., last January, and again in October at the "Mid-West Regional convention at Fort Wayne, Ind., and at the All-New England Regional convention at Concord, N. H."

Miss Van Buren is classed as one of the three greatest singers of her race, along with Marion Anderson and Roland Hayes.

Mrs. Gordon Becker to Entertain Drama Group

Mrs. Gordon Becker, Neenah, will entertain the drama group of American Association of University Women Tuesday evening at her home. Mrs. Clarence Deakins will review "Id Rather Be Right" by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart. Members wishing transportation are to call Miss Mary Carrier.

BRIDGE TUESDAY Play will be continued at 7:45 Tuesday night in the contract bridge tournament held weekly at the Conway hotel.

The lectures are sponsored to encourage good will and understanding between Catholics and non-Catholics by presenting the doctrines of the Catholic church clearly and giving the inside story of the Catholic faith. Questions will be answered freely. Father Gerard has stated.

The subject of the Lecture tonight is "God the Creator," and subsequent lectures will be on the following topics: Jan. 24, "Sin, the Creature's Rebellion;" Jan. 31, "Redemption Through Christ;" Feb. 7, "Religious Mysteries;" Feb. 14, "The Bible;" Feb. 21, "The Church;" Feb. 28, "The Government of the Church;" March 7, "The Educative Action of the Church;" March 14, "The Sacramental Action of the Church;" March 21, "Forgiveness of Sin;" March 28, "Christian Marriage;" April 4, "The Mother of Christ;" April 11, "The Christian Sacrifice and Priesthood."

Engagement Revealed at Formal Party

GUESTS at the Alpha Delta Pi formal Saturday night at the Masonic temple received a pleasant surprise when Miss Mary Tuttle, a member of the active chapter, made known her engagement to Chester Roberts, a graduate of Lawrence college with the class of 1936, now studying medicine at Northwestern university. Miss Tuttle, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Tuttle, Akron, Ohio, has been making her home here with her uncle, A. F. Tuttle, 524 E. North street. She will be graduated from Lawrence college this June. Her fiancé, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Roberts, San Francisco, became affiliated with Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity while at Lawrence.

The Alpha Delta Pi dance was attended by about 100 persons and was followed by a buffet supper in the chapter rooms at the Pan-Hellenic house. Miss Virginia Schrier and Miss Kathryn Dapp were co-chaperons. Programs were in black and gold, decorated with the sorority crest. Arrangements for the dance were in the direction of Miss Gay Patterson, Oak Park, social chairman of the sorority.

Clusters of vari-colored balloons hung from the chandeliers to give the Heartstone a festive appearance for the winter formal of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority Saturday evening. A buffet lunch was served in one of the smaller rooms, and an orchestra played for dancing. Mr. and Mrs. Warren Deck and Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence Towle were co-chaperons and among the guests were Miss Ruth Cope, dean of women at Lawrence; Dr. and Mrs. Charles Flory, Dr. and Mrs. Willis Van Horn and Miss Virginia Schrier. About 60 persons attended.

The Lawrence college chapter of Kappa Delta sorority was hostess during the last week to Miss Adele Stephenson, national inspector of the sorority. Last Wednesday evening the pledges gave a party for her, arrangements having been made by Miss Marion Schmidt, Miss Ruth Hartshorn and Miss Gertrude Schvenderer, and yesterday afternoon the sorority gave a cozy in the chapter rooms for the visitor. Miss Stephenson, who is a member of Alpha Pi chapter of Kappa Delta at William and Mary college, did her graduate work at the University of Michigan. She will be back here for another visit in a few weeks.

Students Perform "The Big Apple" at High School Dance

"The Big Apple" was performed by a group of eight Appleton High school pupils at the Student council dance Saturday in the school corridors. More than 250 pupils saw the exhibition. Boys and girls who took part in the dance were Jack Lally, Mary Rose Kourad, John Killoren, Peggy Grove, James Chapelle, Mildred Toli, Paul McKenny and Mary Ellen Schuetter. Helen Jane Melby and Arthur Melby gave an exhibition of ball room dancing and Jean Nuoffer sang "True Confessions" and "Rose-Hulme" to complete the entertainment. The dance was accompanied by Eddie Renal's orchestra, which also provided music for dancing. Pennants, banners and balloons, in the traditional blue and gold of the school, formed the decoration theme. Miss Mary Baker, dean of girls, was in charge of the dance. Anne Holtz is president of the council.

Savings and Loan Body Will Meet Wednesday

Clintonville—The Federal Savings and Loan association will hold its annual meeting at 7:30 Wednesday evening at the city hall, according to an announcement by the secretary, S. J. Tillesco. Reports will be given of the past year's business and directors will be elected to succeed Walter B. Huebner, Harold Oik and L. A. Heuer, whose terms expire at this time. Stockholders in the organization will also consider the adoption of a new charter, known as "Charter K," which is more liberal in nature than the charter under which the association now operates.

What's New at the Library

Between filling lecture engagements and making visits to various parts of the United States, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has found time to write another book, this time on the question of world peace. "This Troubled World" gives her a chance to express her own beliefs on the subject. She has analyzed many peace plans and as a result presents her own suggestions for permanent peace, realizing that it is easier to keep out of situations which lead to war than it is to bring about peace once war is going on.

A much talked about new book is "Red Star Over China" by Edgar Snow, the only foreign correspondent who penetrated deep into Northwest China and returned to tell the tale. In it Snow describes the stories of the 6,000 mile "long march" of the army of Chu Teh, "the Red Napoleon," tells the inside story of the kidnapping of Chiang Kai-Shek and its consequences, China's united front against Japan and its war tactics and objectives. He also shows the only pictures ever taken behind the lines of the Chinese Red army. The book covers the life of China during the last nine years.

A practicing psychologist who claims to know what trouble is and how to avoid it gives some ideas on the subject in "The Art of Selfishness" by David Seabury. The book is divided into 50 chapters, each dealing with a specific human problem, and two solutions for each, one that worked and one that didn't.

Starting out with nothing but determination, good will and ambition to see places and things, Anita Willets-Burnham and her family managed to see Europe and to circumnavigate the globe, to live in many countries and to enjoy themselves at a small expense. She tells about it in her book, "Around the World in a Penny." The volume is made more interesting by travel sketches by the author and her daughter, Carol-Lou.

Sir James Jeans, astronomer and writer on scientific subjects turns his attention to music in "Science and Music" in which non-technical terms he discusses the physical mechanism of instruments and theories of acoustics as applied to music rooms and concert halls and the like.

A timely book and one which should be read with interest is "The Powers of the Mind" by W. E. Binkley, professor of history and political science at Ohio North-

P. T. A. Will Hear School Debaters

Unicameral System of Legislation to be Topic In Auditorium

Clintonville—The high school debate squad will appear before the Parent-Teacher association at its monthly meeting Wednesday evening at the high school auditorium. The teams will argue the question, "Resolved, that the several states adopt a unicameral system of legislation."

The affirmative side of the question will be upheld by Betty Spirel, Elaine Gretzinger and Boone Miller, while the negative team consists of Lucille Winkel, Glen Krause and Julia Greb. Thus far this season, the Clintonville teams have taken part in two tournaments. They placed first in that of the Northeastern conference by winning five and losing one; and ranked second in a freshman-sophomore event with four victories and two defeats. A number of practice debates have been held recently with teams from nearby schools.

The annual "Father and Son" banquet, sponsored by the Methodist Men's club will be held at 6:30 Tuesday evening in the church dining room. Women of the Methodist Guild will serve the banquet, after which a program will entertain.

Mrs. C. B. Stanley left Saturday afternoon for Los Angeles, Calif., where she will spend several months with relatives. She was accompanied as far as Oshkosh Saturday morning by her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Barker. A family dinner was held there at noon at the home of Dr. and Mrs. John Rogers, the latter being a daughter of Mrs. Stanley. Another daughter, Miss Kathleen, a teacher at Burnett, was also present for the family gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Manser entertained friends at dinner Friday evening at their home on Eighth street. Three tables of bridge followed, with prizes awarded to T. A. Patterson, Eric Deser, Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Norman Abraham.

THE CHARACTERS

Nina, ex-debutante, impulsively married David, but really loved her stepfather. Now she loves David and loathes Richard.

Richard, the suave, handsome stepfather, tried to entice Nina into a secret love affair.

Honey, Nina's gay, childish mother, who is wild about Richard, develops a serious heart ailment.

David, a bright young auto salesman with a small salary, belatedly suspects Nina of caring too much for Richard.

Chapter 51

DAVID'S NOTE

AS Nina walked back to the Ritz, she was trying to be a Pollyanna, and think how she might have gone on just thinking how cunning and gay David was, and how much she liked the color of his hair, if there had been no Richard to compare him with. How she might have missed really—appreciating him... and his love.

She took a taxi and drove to the station.

Seven fifty-five

It was damp and smelly. Unexpected puffs of steam came out from under the engine as she walked by, on the wet boards to her parlor car; two cars bumped up against each other with a crash and locked, and Nina jumped nervously. All her fears came back. She shivered, and was miserable.

"North Philadelphia, next stop!"

Heavens, were they only that far? And she realized it was the same cry, and the same conductor, and the same thought on her part, as the evening before.

At 10.55 they pulled into the Pennsylvania station. At 11 she was on her way home.

Would David, by some happy chance, have overslept, with no Nina to tug him into wakefulness? Was there any possibility that he might still be at home?

"Button," she called, "Darling Button, are you here?"

But she didn't mean that, because she was hugging Button close. She meant David.

And when she spoke to the dog, she said: "Good—old David. There, there, David..." and didn't know what she was saying.

She was sobbing, too, and she didn't know that either.

Now that the ordeal of getting herself back was over, she seemed drained of all strength.

With one hand on Button's bony head, she dialed the number of the salesroom, and the operator was just answering, when she saw the note.

She put the receiver down, and stared at the white envelope.

She could see: "Nina" written across the front. It was propped on the mantel—where it stood out against the blue walls.

"Nina."

Not scrawled—hastily—the way David scribbled down telephone messages—or memoranda—or the way he tore off a note to her, if he had gone out unexpectedly.

But "Nina." The letters were formed with precision. The whole underlined.

Even before she read it, her spirits had reached a new low mark. Her heart had never been so near to standing still.

"This Is The End"

"Nina."

You will understand why this is the end of you and me, as a team—if we ever were one—when I tell you that your mother called this morning... from the 74th street house. Don't worry—I didn't give you and Richard away, but she told me of her own accord that she had decided not to go to Tuxedo, but that as her husband had run down to Atlantic City for a day or so she would like you to come and stay with her if you could... Well, that covers the situation, as far as I can see, and it pretty well washes us up, doesn't it? I've tried not to see what was going on, Nina, because I loved you pretty terribly, and... anyway, I just hung on, like a fool. But I'm through, now. Exit David, and so forth...

Do what you like with the furniture we bought—I've cleared out my own personal things. I'll send you

Iowa at Indiana.

BY EARL HILLIGAN
CHICAGO—(7)—The Big Ten basketball program isn't a full one this week, but it's packed with dynamite for two clubs now holding the brightest championship chances—Northwestern and Michigan.

Only four games will be played tonight, with Chicago and Ohio State having open dates, but two of the contests may add to the upset "wreckage" which marks the current campaign as one of the most hectic and hard-fought in many seasons.

Northwestern, the conference leader with four wins in as many starts, goes to Lafayette, Ind., to battle the high scoring Purdue aggregation as Michigan invades Madison to challenge Wisconsin's all-time dangerous Badgers.

Would Scramble Race
Michigan, with three victories, shares the undefeated rating with Northwestern. A victory for Wisconsin would keep the Badgers in title contention, while a win for Purdue would scramble the standings to such an extent that almost every team could reasonably be figured still in the running.

Other games tonight send Minnesota against Illinois at Champaign and Iowa against Indiana at Bloomington. On Saturday night only two tilts are scheduled but both are important. Michigan battles Northwestern at Evanston, Ill., as Illinois, fighting to retain its 1937 title laurels, opposes Ohio State at Columbus.

Overturning Tilt
Michigan downed Minnesota Saturday night 31 to 16, holding the Gophers to three points in the last period as the Wolverines scored 20.

Northwestern, on a free throw by Jim Currie and Mike McMichael's field goal, trimmed Indiana in overtime, 32 to 29, while Purdue took a 40 to 34 thriller from Wisconsin at Purdue's new field house, Ohio State had little trouble downing Iowa 48 to 29, and Illinois trimmed Chicago 51 to 34.

"Pick" Delner, Illinois center, scored 29 points to equal the single game Big Ten scoring mark originally set by Joe Foweraker of Northwestern in 1933 and tied in 1937 by Jewell Young, Purdue's sharpshooter.

MEET MICHIGAN
Madison—(7)—The University of Wisconsin basketball team will finally set its home season for the first semester tonight in a game with Michigan's undefeated Big Ten quintet.

Wisconsin's chances for a victory appeared slim, but the Badger's fine performance against Purdue Saturday night gave promise of a hard fought battle.

John Townsend, all-conference center and forward for the past two years, heads the Michigan five. Another outstanding man in the Wolverine lineup is Fishman, a guard. Fishman's small stature does not keep him from breaking up opposition scoring plays, and he is widely known as a pass interceptor.

Bill Barelay, Townsend's ace running mate, is lost to the Wolves because of a leg injury he suffered in practice last week.

After the rough and tumble play at Purdue, Wisconsin's physical condition is none too good. Ernie Davis and Charles Jones, guard and forward respectively, are suffering from bumps and bruises and Lee Mitchell's leg is still not fully recovered.

Coach Foster excused his charges yesterday after a short warm-up drill and chalk talk.

ST. NORBERT WINS
De Pere—(7)—The St. Norbert college basketball team beat Michigan Tech. of Houghton, Saturday night, 45 to 51.

Vosmik Intends to Batter Red Sox Left Field Fence
CLEVELAND, (7)—Don't look now, but these are Joe Vosmik's eyes focussing lovingly on the short left field wall in Boston's Fenway park.

The new Red Sox outfielder—Joe Cronin shuffled three men there, St. Louis Browns' very this winter to get him—said today the transplanting should help his batting average "quite a bit."

"It's the first time I've had a short left field wall to aim at," explained the 27-year old right-handed fly chaser, who hit .325 with the Browns last year, and over 300 for four of his six campaigns with the Cleveland Indians.

Second Shortest
"I won't say how many I'm going to put over that wall. Usually I don't hit a ball high enough. But I'm going to bounce a lot of hits off there, and that's good for two bases."

Fenway park's left-field wall, incidentally, is only 312 feet away from home plate. That's second shortest in the American league. The nearest distance from plate to boundary is the 301 feet to the left field flagpole in Yankee stadium.

Vosmik lost to Buddy Myer by a fraction of a point in 1935 for the league batting title, hitting .349. He fell to .287 the next year, his first under a three-season contract calling for a reported $15,000 annually, and Cleveland shipped him to St. Louis in a three-way deal.

Then, after last season, the Browns sent him to Boston, for pitcher Buck Newsom, Colonel Buster Mills, the outfielder, and infielder Red Kress.

Legion Quintet Downs Fox River Paper Five In Overtime Thriller

LITTLE CHUTE—Fox River Paper company cagers, a team considered too strong for Outagamie county league competition, were defeated in an overtime tilt, 27 to 24, by the American Legion squad of Little Chute at St. John High school gymnasium Sunday afternoon. The American Legion quint holds first place in County league standings.

Pete Wildenberg and Orville Bongers shared the spotlight when each scored buckets in the overtime period, played after the regulation period ended at 23 and 23. Grishaber scored a free toss for Fox River in the extra session.

The Legion, boasting a string of nine victories, will risk its county title in the final game.

KOSBAB AND P. FIEBELKORN shot games of 235 and 235, respectively, in the latest matches of the Big Ten league at the Zion Lutheran alleys.

Kosbab finished with a 578 series and his teammates, Cuddihy and Hildebrandt had games of 226 and 212, respectively, but their team, Ohio, lost two games to Northwestern.

For the Wildcats, Eggert spilled a 582 series, J. Stark a 201, Tooklin 228, Newman 220, and Reetz 208.

Fiebelkorn's team, Iowa, lost three straight to Illinois. Iowa scores were Gleisner 217, 594; Sawyer, 210; Leisner, 217; Puetz, 204.

Paced by N. Belling who rapped a 225 and 609 series, the Illinois high up team marks, 997 for game and 2,912 for match. Other Illinois scores: Schmidt, 227; Refke, 206, 600; J. Tornow, 206, 605.

Davidson tied together games of 231, 215 and 199 to chalk up his high series as Michigan won two from Chicago. His teammates, Steckler and Edward Davidson hit games of 213 and 205 respectively.

Art Ecker smashed games of 205 and 215 and a 604 series and Loeper a 209 for the Maroons.

E. Mueller rapped a 232 game and 611 series and Al Bauer a 211 as Minnesota won two from Purdue.

Finishing the half with the 206 game and 579 series and Winand who spilled a 205.

Pat Murphy rolled a 590 series, Vogt a 218 and Bob Heiss a 201 as Indiana won two from Wisconsin.

For the Badgers, N. Johnson had 208 and 561, George Schoenke a 210, and S. Peotter a 201.

Marquette Beats Michigan Cagers

Routs Western State Teachers, 61-34, Before Capacity Crowd.

MILWAUKEE—(7)—Marquette university cagers, scoring almost at will, easily routed the Western State Teachers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., 61 to 34, before a capacity crowd of 2,500 Saturday night.

The final score was the highest total run up by Marquette since Coach Bill Chandler took charge at the Hilltop eight years ago, and represented the sixth victory in eight starts this season.

After Hesik opened the scoring with a free throw in the opening minutes of play, the Hilltoppers soon bounced off to a 12 to 2 lead which they never relinquished.

Marquette was accurate on both long and short shots, and controlled most of the rebounds.

Finishing the half with the score 28 to 17 in their favor, the Marquette regulars started a scoring spree at the start of the second half and at one time ran the count to 53 to 24.

Coach Chandler inserted second and third stringers freely midway in the closing period. Sokody, Marquette center, was high man with 13 points, while Mershon, Western State forward had 12.

Patty Berg Wins Golf Tournament at Augusta
Augusta, Ga.—(7)—Patty Berg of Minneapolis headed for the Florida circuit today with the Augusta women's golf tournament trophy tucked neatly in her bag.

She clinched the title yesterday with a 72-hole total of 311, which included three sub-par rounds and one par 79 round of medal play. Patty also won last year.

Oshkosh All-Stars in Win Over Duffy Florals

WISCONSIN RAPIDS—(7)—The Oshkosh All-Stars defeated the Duffy Florals, of Chicago last night, 51 to 37. Joe Reiff, Duffy forward, and Preboski, All-Star forward, shared scoring honors with 16 points each. The score was 25 to 12 in favor of the Chicago five at half time.

Lead when the Town Taxi quint invades Legion hall for Tuesday evening. Little Chute girls will tangle with the Gordon Bent girls of Green Bay in a preliminary tussle.

Miss 13 Free Throws
The Fox River squad failed to capitalize on its free throw opportunities when they missed 13 out of 19. The Legion showed a good percentage with five out of nine shots.

Wildenberg led the Little Chute offense with five baskets and a free throw for eleven points and Bongers looped four baskets and a free toss for nine points before leaving the game on four fouls. Catlin was high for the losers with eight gift shots. Both teams played tight defensive games.

Fox River held a 5 to 2 lead at the end of the first quarter. Little Chute forged into an 8 to 7 lead but Fox retaliated and led 10 to 8 at halftime. The Legion lads took a 1-point lead at the opening of the third period but Fox River tied it up at 15-15, 17-17 and 19-19 as the third quarter ended.

Tony Jansen put Little Chute ahead in the fourth quarter with a one-handed shot and Catlin came back with a rebound to knot the count. Wildenberg hooked two points and Catlin scored from the side to tie the score when the game ended. A 5-minute overtime was played.

St. John frosh defeated Allouez Junior High school, 32 to 15, in a preliminary tilt.

Fordham upset Pittsburgh, 18 to 17, in one of the three games played Saturday at St. John gymnasium where Jerome Helf scored the winning free toss. Helf practically beat Pittsburgh single-handed with sixteen points on seven field goals and two free throws. Urban Van Boxtel led the losers with three field goals in the tilt which required two overtime periods and free throw tossing.

Stanford defeated Notre Dame, 14 to 12, in another thriller which went to two overtime periods and had to be settled with free throws. V. Vandenberg led Stanford with four field goals and a charity toss for nine points while Van Asten topped Notre Dame with two baskets.

With Jimmy Koehn dropping in five baskets, Southern California trounced Wisconsin, 22 to 12. H. Van Gruensven bolstered the winners with three baskets while Bob Seibers and Vandenberg each scored five points for the losers.

Appleton Teams Win And Lose Match Games
Atlas sports cracked a 2,449 total on games of 672, 667 and 710 to win a match game from Waupaca by 76 pins Sunday at the Arcade alleys.

The losers rolled a 2,373 series and were paced by H. Bammel who hit a 532 total. W. Klein shot a 214 game and 543 series to head the Appleton team.

Schuessler Weather Strips lost a match game by 17 pins to Fond du Lac. Schuesslers hit a 2,427 series against 2,444 for the winners. Barbeau shot a 222 game and 543 series to lead Fond du Lac while L. Kugler bowled a 201 game and 514 total to pace Appleton. C. Noffke shot a 204 game for Schuesslers.

Eight Clubs Entered In Three-Eye League
Moline, Ill.—(7)—The Three-Eye league, which came through the 1937 baseball wars with only four teams in competition, had twice that many clubs signed today for 1938.

The circuit, oldest class B organization in baseball, accepted Evansville, Ind., as the eighth member at a meeting yesterday and will play a 126-game schedule with these clubs fighting it out: Evansville, Ind., Decatur, Bloomington, Springfield and Moline, or Illinois, and Clinton, Waterloo and Cedar Rapids, of Iowa.

The campaign will open May 1 and close Sept. 4.

High School Skier Takes Off

Budge Would Join Perry, Vines in Pro Net Circles

BY SID FEDER
(Pinch-Hitting for Eddie Brietz)
NEW YORK—(7)—This should give those Cub master-minds something to think about: When Lonnie Frey was working at the docks for the Dodgers, infield grounders used to slide through his legs like greased pigs, whenever Van Mungo was pitching. . . . And Van burned up—but plenty. . . . It got so bad, Mungo once slammed his glove down and refused to go on 'till Frey was yanked. . . . Now the grapevine says Van is ticketed for the Cubs. . . . Where you guessed it? Frey draws his pay-check. . . .

The Browns-Indians catching deal is still alive. . . . Cleveland's after Rollie Hemsley. . . . But the Browns won't give him up unless they get Frankie Pytlak in return. . . . The Tigers are offering Hank Greenberg $30,000—a $5,000 boost. . . . Lots of fight men can't figure out all the howl for new "foul" rules since the Steele-Apostoli and Venturi-Armstrong affairs. . . . Experienced fighters insist they can't be hurt by any low blow if they're wearing the protective device approved by the athletic commission. . . .

American league's fourth "Battle Up" film will show 5,000,000 customers in this country, says Lew Fonseca. . . . And Eddie Murphy, the N. Y. Sun writer, asserts that if and when the National league gets around to something similar, it will outdo the American leaguers by throwing in bank night. . . .

The tip is out that a set of rules governing ball-players playing the horses will be handed down before spring training's over. . . . As a result of Commissioner Landis' rumored investigation. . . . When ever Don Budge turns pro, it'll probably be for the same outfit handling Ellsworth Vines and Freddy Perry. . . . Because the three of them together would draw the most do-re-mi. . . . The Grapefruit Golf league reports Sam Sneed looks simply gorgeous (My Dear) in an outfit of brown trousers, rose beige shirt, orange tie and dunnet sweater. . . .

Wild Bill Hallahan and Chick Hafey are a couple more ball players who may not be around much longer. . . . Hallahan hasn't received a Red contract for 1938 yet. . . . And Hafey will get only a conditional one. . . . Leo Rodak, the Chicago feather, and Jackie Wilson of Pittsburgh are trying some of that Fordham-Pitt football stuff in the now. . . . And wound up in three draw decisions.

Thursday—Whites versus Greens.
Friday—Grays versus Blacks.

A 225 game and 590 series turned in by W. Stiren were the highest scores in the latest matches of the St. Joseph's Men's league at the St. Joseph alleys.

Aided by R. Alesch who rapped a 220, Stiren paced his Blacks to a 2-game win over the Greens and high team marks, 930 for game and 2602 for match. O. Vandereyden's 201 game and 557 series were stand-outs in the Green column.

F. Grosser's 521 series was best in the Reds scoring as they won two from the Whites, led by Planner who turned in a 506.

A. Schiltz shot a 208 game and 549 series as the Blues won two from the Grays, headed by M. Kolosso who had a 201 game and 543 series.

Olympic Rider in Longest Jumps at Wisconsin Rapids

Sverre Fredheim, St. Paul, Soars 121 Feet Two Times but Falls

WISCONSIN RAPIDS—(7)—Combining jumps of 109 and 111 feet with fine form, Gunnar Rebn, of Port Edwards, Wisconsin, riding for the Tri-Norse Ski club, of Wisconsin Rapids, won class A honors in the sixth annual Dyrac mound ski meet here yesterday.

The judges awarded the Tri-Norse rider a rating of 142.5 points. Sverre Fredheim, St. Paul Olympic star, marked up the longest jumps of the day, twice soaring 121 feet, but a fall on his first trial eliminated him from class A honors. The hill record is 134 feet. The longest jump among the skiers who placed was contributed by Fritz Pohlman, of the Ishpeming, Mich. Ski club, who made 116 feet. He took second place in class C.

Class B Winner
Another Ishpeming rider, Elmer Saari, was awarded class B honors with 145.3 points on jumps of 109 and 105 feet. The class C title went to George Haltiner, of the St. Paul Ski club, who fashioned jumps of 101 and 112 feet for 145 points.

The judges named Arvid Bakke, of the Milwaukee-Oconomowoc Ski club, first in the senior class. He was given a rating of 141.1 points on jumps of 82 and 92 feet.

Tuggers to Clash In Menasha Ring

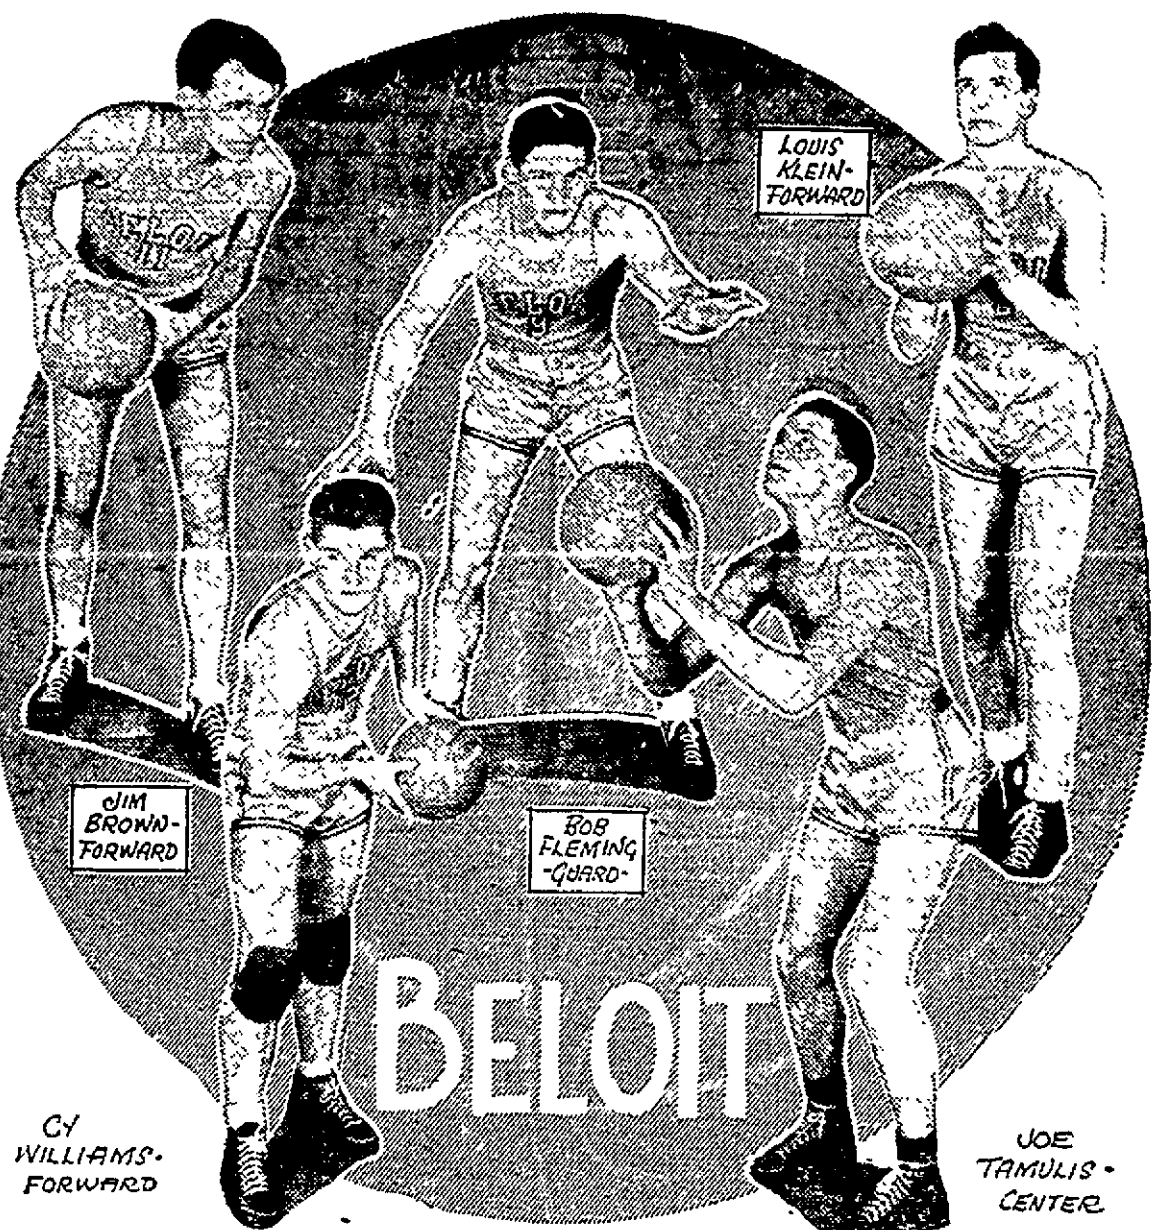

Wednesday's Bout Will Show "Believe It or Not" Subjects

Menasha — Two wrestlers who have been cartooned in Robert Ripley's "Believe It or Not" feature, will appear the next mat show at the S. A. Cook armory Thursday evening. They are Rowdy Pocan, billed from Kimberly, and Jim Demetral, claimant of the state light heavyweight wrestling championship.

A drawing of Pocan appeared recently with an explanation that he wrestled 70 times in one week at the Wisconsin State Fair and gained and lost 70 pounds. Demetral has lost 30,000 pounds in his life, according to the cartoonist, as he gains and loses an average of five pounds a day.

Pocan will tangle with Earl Otto in the 30 minute, one fall opener. Demetral will oppose Ivan Pacey. Milwaukee grappler, in two out of three falls in an hour time limit. The wudup bout will pit "Speedy" Frank Dugan against Duke Ruppenthal, Tigertown, Tiger.

William Erickson, sports promoter, has announced ladies night for the Wednesday evening show. Two ladies will be admitted for one paid admission or a lady will be admitted free with every man's ticket. In addition music will be provided between falls.

OPPOSE LAWRENCE COLLEGE FIVE TUESDAY NIGHT

Above are five outstanding members of the Beloit college basketball team which opposes Lawrence here Tuesday evening at Alexander gymnasium in a Midwest conference game. Joe DiMaggio Is Voted 'Player of the Year' Award

New York —(AP)— Joe DiMaggio, the Yankees' amazing sophomore outfielder, has an added talking point when he foregoethers with Colonel Jake Ruppert to discuss his 1938 salary.

DiMaggio, home run king of the majors and an almost perfect defensive outfielder, has been voted the "Player of the Year" award for his 1937 season, by the Baseball Writers' association of New York.

Joe is now on his way east and, although there have been reports he has already signed his contract or at least agreed to terms, he will discuss his salary with club officials. It is the general belief that the club has offered DiMaggio a $22,500 contract, an increase of $7,500.

DiMaggio in his second year as a regular led both leagues in total bases and runs scored as well as in home runs. He boosted his batting average from .323 to .346.

The youngest player and the first second-year man ever to receive the award, the young Italian-American from San Francisco will be one of the guests of honor at the fifteenth annual dinner of the metropolitan baseball writers Jan. 30, and will receive a plaque emblematic of his selection. Philadelphia sports writers will honor him Jan. 25.

before the half which found Lawrence holding a 27 to 13 deficit.

It was evident at the start of the second half that Coach Lampe's boys were not content just to win for their boss and they kept the pressure on. The Vikings, although badly disconcerted, continued an offense but Carroll's man for man play trapped the guards before they could get the ball away. Cliff Burton, always consistent, was the only man able to bring the ball across the center line with any regularity and although several plays clicked, the ball was not dropping. Cape, although taking a bad beating, tossed in his fourth and fifth baskets and Burton scored a pair. The only other 2-pointer was a follow-up by Kapp.

Lampe inserted his famous sophomore team midway in the second half in order to give the big five a four minute rest. This group is paced by a popular little red head named Lawrence who, if he plays much in the future, is going to complicate the reading of stories when these teams are meeting.

Faleide was lost on fouls after five minutes of the second half had been played, but his successors showed well considering what they were up against. While Buck, Knoblauch, and Pauler were running the score to 46, Lawrence had to be content with two free throws in the last 74 minutes.

Carroll was set for the game as indicated by Lampe at the conclusion when he expressed the belief that it was the best team he has had and that it played its best game Saturday night.

Lawrence college freshman careers defeated Carroll yearlings, 28 to 21, in the preliminary to the varsity game.

Cotton Gives Cold Shoulder to Tour Of American Links

Sees No Reason to Leave England at Present Time

BY GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK —(AP)— Henry Cotton, regarded by many competent critics as the greatest golfer to walk the fairways since Bobby Jones but his peak, still doesn't feel the lure of American golf.

The swarthy Englishman, who would be a tremendous individual attraction on this side, has turned down every invitation to come over this season and fight it out with the American stars on their home grounds.

Doesn't Need Money
He doesn't need the money, and, being a supreme egoist, doesn't feel that he needs to come to America to prove that he is the champion.

When he whipped the entire American Ryder cup team in the last British open at Carnoustie and then polished off Denny Shute in their 72-hole "championship" match, Cotton decided he had done enough for the time being.

It is to be regretted, because a single-handed invasion by the unsmiling star this summer would give any of his countrymen a real test, that he has turned down the biggest shot-in-the-arm it has had since Jones' triumph.

"Of course, we have hoped the world would," said an official of the United States Golf association. "But Cotton wants a big guarantee, and it is not within our province to offer one."

The British ace scarcely can be blamed too strenuously for his stand. He has reached a spot not occupied by any of his country's professionals since the days of George Duncan and Abe Mitchell, and it is a beautiful spot to be in.

Hero in England
Cotton is the hero of every golfing kid in England. He's the guy who finally set the Americans on their heads when everybody had about decided it couldn't be done.

He has the sweetest teaching job in England, so many pupils that he's had to take on several extra assistants. The money is rolling in, and Henry is sitting pretty.

Cotton, in this witness' opinion, is tops where first and second shots have to be hit a country mile and absolutely straight, where the slightest deviation from line spells ruin. Cotton can keep on hitting that way indefinitely. All the Americans in the last British open, with the notable exception of Byron Nelson, finally cracked under the strain.

Cotton, playing over here on the average course of under 7,000 yards, and where wayward drives are not so severely penalized, might be just another one of the boys. He would be up there close, but the odds would be against his winning from the field. He is bright enough to realize that.

Tuesday—Kaukauna at Hortonville.

NEW LONDON'S Mike's Tavern wound up their first half of the Outagamie County league's schedule by running away with Seymour 46 to 27 in a game at the Washington high school gym New London, yesterday afternoon.

In an exhibition tilt Johnson's Service cagers defeated Shoochin in more of a nip and tuck battle, 27 to 15. Both teams brought a good following to the New London gym.

Tomorrow night two undefeated teams at Little Chute American Legion team and the Town Taxis of Appleton, will meet for the first time to battle for the first half championship at the Little Chute gym.

The Taxis have played five games to Little Chute's six and it appears unlikely the Taxis will make up a postponed game with the Hortonville aggregation.

Seymour never had a chance from the start of yesterday's game. The Bulldogs scored almost at will and gathered a 10 to 3 lead in the first quarter. They increased the tally to 16-6 by the end of half. Both sides found the hoop often during the last half with the score at 31 to 16.

Each team substituted freely with Seymour showing all ten members of the squad.

BASKETBALL

By CHARLES R. (CHICK) DAVIES
Duquesne University Coach

DAVIES RATES MAN-TO-MAN ABOVE ZONE DEFENSE
Court Teams Should Know Both, Though, to Combat Opponents of Varying Sizes

IN common with other former professional basketball players who are now successful coaches, I believe in the efficacy of the man-to-man defense. I have taught the zone defense at times because circumstances left no alternative.

Duquesne's basketball team opened the 1934-35 season on the road with Washington U. of St. Louis as the first opponent. My boys had been employing a man-to-man defense in practice with great success so that they were not anticipating trouble from that particular phase of the game. The contest to their surprise was close all the way through with the lead constantly changing hands. Washington had exceptionally tall forwards who were throwing long shots through the hoops, over the outstretched hands of our 5'5" guards, Frank Serany and Jimmy Murphy. Finally we emerged the winner, 48-44, but I knew our defense had to be changed before we could face Loyola in Chicago two evenings later.

Much as I disliked the zone for its numerous weaknesses, I was forced to use it. Loyola was expecting a man-to-man alignment and was mildly surprised when Duquesne went on the floor with a two-three zone. This game was not as difficult as the St. Louis encounter since our shifty guards in the front line broke quickly time after time for many baskets. As the season progressed the fellows became proficient in the zone defense and therefore switched to a man-to-man only upon few occasions.

It may seem a bit incredulous that a team playing a man-to-man defense should learn the rudiments of the zone in a few days. The fact of the matter is that a zone can be learned in a week whereas a good man-to-man requires years to perfect. The zone calls for less skill than the man-to-man but necessitates more aggressiveness.

The individual zone player must know the movements of his own team and where to move when the ball is in different positions on the floor. He must be willing to leave his own defensive zone to go into another defensive area if an unusual situation arises.

Means "Keep Eye on Ball"
The following positions are taken on the floor in a zone defense. This first diagram illustrates the areas before the ball has been passed through the first line of defense.

Kimberly Preps

A. A. Cagers Will Clash With Milwaukee Team Next Sunday

Kimberly — Kimberly A. A. cagers will have what is considered the strongest opposition Sunday, Jan. 23, when it tangles with the Milwaukee Panthers, a Negro team, at the clubhouse. The game will get underway at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Kimberly fans believe that the A's have one of the strongest teams in years this season as the speed and clever passing they do defeated in eight games their latest win over Chilton Thursday evening when they piled up a huge score of 59 to their opponents' 33.

The Negro team has a record of 128 wins in the last three years. Besides demonstrating the hidden ball play and many other trick shots which they will show at Kimberly, the Panthers will try to hold the ball from Kimberly for three minutes, a very difficult feat.

Walford, a guard, who probably is the ace shot of the Negro team, has averaged 19 points in the last 25 games. Simons, who will play at center, is well over six feet. Others on the team are: Britton, Smith, Martin, Lewis, Clemmons, and C. Schubert, manager.

The A's who will see action in the Milwaukee game are: McLay, Holkins, Bowman, C. Vander Velden, Joe and Norb. Gossens, Albert and E. Vander Velden.

Wisconsin, Marquette
Win Basketball Tilt
Kimberly — Before a crowd of several hundred youngsters, Wisconsin defeated Notre Dame 11 to 6, and Marquette won over Iowa, 25 to 12, Saturday morning at the club.

Van Grinsven of Wisconsin was hot, with four field goals to give his team a victory in a highly contested game.

Iowa's defeat was due to only having four boys on the court. A misunderstanding of the time of the game had the remaining Iowa members coming after the contest was over.

The Saturday morning league is sponsored by Manager George McElroy of the clubhouse and booms kids' rivalry and good sportsmanship.

With Beloit Tomorrow
The Lawrence college swimming squad, under the supervision of Ade Dillon, new Viking mentor, will meet the Beloit college men here Tuesday afternoon in their second conference meet of the season.

According to the results of previous meets this year, Lawrence has the edge over the Beloit crew. Captain Ken Westberg, backstroke star and Midwest conference diving champ, should lead the scoring.

This estimate was made by naval officials on the basis of recommendations in President Roosevelt's 1939 budget message. Requests for supplementary construction are expected in his national defense message, which may be sent to Congress in a few days.

The 1939 budget asked for an expenditure of $134,000,000 for new construction. Of this sum, $122,500,000 is for new warships, but the whole $134,000,000 may be considered in estimating the employment to be "Pleased? . . . Oh yes—of course I'm. Terribly . . . can't you hear?"

"Well—gosh, you oughta be!"

"You'll remember to tell him—you, Jack?"

"Yeah."

Add an estimated 20 to 25 per cent for the supplementary estimates, and the total comes to about $163,000,000.

Naval officials say 85 per cent of the cost of a warship goes for labor. This means labor will receive about $138,550,000.

Officials figure the average labor cost at $6 a day for each man. That means that 23,091,000 working days will be paid for.

There wasn't a sound in the apartment, and when Tina didn't move from the telephone, she was shivering with cold, she sat very still, the air close to her body became warmer, a little. If she moved, it stirred, and like an icy draught, she noticed that she was still listening to the telephone, itself, when she took her hand away, there were wet marks on the hard rubber. One, two three, four, she counted them. Five.

Meanwhile, Chairman Walsh (D-Mass.) of the senate naval committee said in a debate last night with Senator Nye (R-N. D.) that the administration's program involved no thought of entering any international armaments race.

Nye, however, termed the navy expansion program "part of an adventurous gamble on a foreign war."

Henry Hoffman Is New President of Hatten Employees

State Board to Hold Hearing on Status of Independent Group

New London—New officers of the Hatten Employees association, independent labor organization, were elected at a meeting of about 100 member employees at the city hall council chambers yesterday afternoon.

The association has been informed by the state labor relations board that that body will conduct a hearing at the city hall here Jan. 25 on the application of the organization for recognition as sole bargaining agency among employees of the Hatten Lumber company. The application for recognition was made last summer. There are approximately 150 workmen now employed at the sawmill.

Henry Hoffman, 803 Shiocton street was elected president to succeed Henry Miller. Kenneth Meating is vice president; Norman Krause, recording secretary; Lanny McFaul, financial secretary; Lester Popke, treasurer; Albert Meatz, doorman.

Garrison Steed, Dan Rex and Albert Oestreich were elected directors to form the executive board with the officers. The association adopted its by-laws at the meeting yesterday.

New London Society

New London—Circles of the Ladies Aid society of the Congregational church will meet at the homes of the respective chairmen this week to organize for the year. Members of the aid society have been divided into three new groups for 1938.

Tuesday evening is the tentative date for the meeting of Circle 1 at the home of Mrs. J. J. Burns, chairman. Mrs. Burns will be assisted by Miss Ismae Stoffer. Mrs. James Lockyer, chairman, and Mrs. E. C. Jost will entertain Circle 2 at a 1:30 dessert luncheon at the Lockyear home Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. F. J. Pfeiffer will be hostess to Circle 3 at her home Tuesday evening.

The Congregational Men's club will meet at the Emil Oestreich home Wednesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Oestreich will be assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lindner.

Knights of Columbus and their ladies will hold the monthly social at the parish hall Wednesday evening. Hostesses will be Mrs. W. M. Garot, Mrs. Ed Ostermeier, Mrs. Ed Jagoditch, Mrs. Charles Eggers and Mrs. Ed Surprise. Men on the assisting committee are Ed Jagoditch, George Ross, R. D. Wilkinson and W. M. Garot.

The Catholic Women's Study club will meet at the parish hall Tuesday evening for a program and social. Hostesses will be Miss Irene Popke, Mrs. S. M. Lowell and Mrs. L. J. Polaski. Miss Popke will present a paper on the Pope at work as the group continues its study of Rome and the Pope. "How the Early Christians Sang" will be told by Mrs. Gregory Charlesworth. Mrs. W. M. Knapstein will tell of the life of St. Monica. The scripture will be read by Mrs. R. D. Wilkinson.

The Theta girls club installed officers at the Odd Fellows hall Sunday afternoon. Shirley Fonstad acted as installing officer. Taking their posts were Joyce Prah, president; Mary Therens, vice president; Lois Steingraber, recording secretary; Shirley Fonstad, treasurer. Mrs. S. E. Therens was present as advisor. The next meeting will be Jan. 28.

'WEBB' AT WORK ON ANOTHER SHIP

A liking for ships and a talent for drawing combine to give Wilbur Prink, better known as "Webb," his hobby. He reveals, however, that his important ambition is to be a professional baseball player—good enough so he could buy a real yacht. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Youth With Art Ability Wants to be Ball Player

As far back as he can remember, Wilbur Prink, 308 S. Meade street, has liked ships. When he had to leave school because of illness, therefore, he began to spend his time drawing pictures of yachts and ocean liners, a hobby which has kept him busy ever since.

Although he has a scrapbook of ship pictures, clipped from magazines, newspapers and advertising pamphlets, Webb, as his friends call him, rarely copies when he makes his ship drawings. After all these years of looking at pictures of boats and reading about them, he knows what a ship should look like.

His favorite is the pencil drawing he made over three years ago, an elegant yacht he calls Blue Waters. Another steamer drawn shortly after Will Rogers died is named S. S. Will Rogers after the beloved humorist. The drawings are about 40 inches wide.

He has never had any instruction in art, but the talent seems to run in his family. He has a brother who can draw much better than he, Webb says, and he has an uncle who is an architect. Although his drawings look perfect to untutored eyes, he says he has trouble with shading and wishes he could get some instruction in it.

Asked whether it was his ambition to become an artist, Webb, who will be 20 years old on Sunday, laughed.

"No, I want to be a professional baseball player."

Being a big-time baseball player, he explained, would, as it were, kill two birds with one stone for him. He likes to play baseball, and then get enough money to buy an ocean-going yacht like the Blue Waters he designed.

Webb is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Prink, S. Meade street.

Two Plymouth Boys Cut by Flying Glass in Accident

Hilbert—A collision occurred at 11:30 Thursday night when James Hugg drove a car into the side of a flat car at the intersection of Highway 114 and the C. M. and St. P. railroad, one mile south and one fourth mile east of Hilbert. Other passengers in the car were Edward Lesnick and Leslie Berkett. The three boys are from Plymouth and were going west, returning home from Potter. They were brought here by Harry Laack of Potter and after they were given first aid, Mr. Laack took them to Plymouth. Lesnick and Berkett were badly cut with glass. The car was completely demolished.

Mrs. J. W. Baldock fell on the icy sidewalk at her home here Sunday afternoon, spraining her left arm.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Stowe of Green Bay were weekend guests at the J. W. Baldock home.

Pegler Praises Disney Show as Greatest Movie

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—You may think it an extravagant opinion, but I will say that Walt Disney's new film, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," is the happiest thing that has happened in this world since the armistice and, much less exaggerating, the beauty of this great artist's achievement in a work which took three years.

And it would be futile to try to communicate in print the enchantment which, for an hour and a half, soothes the souls of those who go to the theater confidently expecting to be entertained, of course, for this is Disney who never fails, and presently find themselves disembodied and adventuring in a realm that never did exist before. Not even the great authors of fairy tales could have visualized anything like this, and the imagination of children could not hear the songs of the dwarfs or see the fawns and chipmunks, the rabbits and the squirrels tidying up the little house deep in the enchanted forest.

When the play was over and the rather hardboiled professional audience in the balcony reluctantly stirred to go, slowly as if loath to return to reality, there were some who made no effort to conceal the moisture in their eyes and others who honked in their handkerchiefs while furtively drying their tears. Disney had made these characters real while retaining the lovely unreality of fancy which may have the sound of a laborious paradox but is only an apologetic attempt to describe a miracle.

As Miss Pelswick wrote in the Journal, "Where other producers in attempting imaginative flights become self-consciously arty and pound out poetic significances with sledge-hammer strokes, Disney presents the most artistic or far-fetched idea in so simple and understandable a form that the impossible seems perfectly natural."

Yes, but he also seems to drug you with a potion which prepares the spirit to accept the loveliest illusions as reality and to overcome for the moment the last, lingering thought that all this is too good to be so. He makes it so.

Should Claim Picture As National Achievement

It seems to me that if Mr. Disney and those who worked with him do not mind our muscling in to that extent we all should claim and acclaim this moving picture film as a national achievement, because no other country on earth has produced anything that is even comparable, and any other country that would be busting its buttons with national pride. The Americans used to have a reputation abroad as braggarts, but since the war we have become self-critical to a fault and the neighbors have taken us at our word, while many of them have gone to boasting in a manner that makes our most offensive claims of the old days seem like apologies.

George M. Cohen's war song "Over There" offended the British and French on the ground that up to the time of its writing the United States had done nothing to justify such self-appreciation, but it was really a modest little thought by comparison with some of the songs and speeches and writings of the fascists and the nazis in later years.

Duce's Son Stands Out With Success Assured

When Mussolini's son thought of entering the movie business his career was hailed in Italy as an accomplished fact and another triumph of fascism, and the nazis have been eating their heart out waiting for Max Schmeling to win the heavyweight championship so that the title may be claimed as a national treasure and Max exalted to the status of state idol of the Hitler youth. In Hollywood, however, the most ordinary producers turn out as routine jobs films which would call for national honors and some more ribbons for the tunic of the Duce's kid if done by him in Italy. And the heavyweight championship—which has always lived here except, briefly, when Carnera and Schmeling dubiously held the title—has never been an article of national pride with us.

I am not oversteering you of the splendor of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." The whole country will be gasping over it soon, but it is an achievement which seems to justify some strutting. Yet when it happened in New York in the Radio City Music hall—a theatre which in any other land would be a clamorous national boast—how did it happen?

This is how it happened: "At 11 o'clock in the morning a movie operator slipped the first spool on the axle, snapped on the switch and let it run. And that was the premiere of the greatest moving picture ever made."

Marion Boy Scouts at Work on Skating Rink

Marion—The skating rink, which is a project of the Marion Boy Scout Troop 26, is being conditioned under the supervision of Scoutmaster Foley. The fire department has flooded the rink for the boys. The two bathhouses from the pond have been moved down to the rink and are heated so the skaters have a warm place to change shoes and skates. Poles have been put up for the electric lights. All of the expenses are paid by Boy Scouts and there are no fees for the use of the rink.

The Ace of Clubs met with Mrs. C. H. Moss Friday afternoon. Contract bridge was played with Mrs. L. M. Devaud holding high score and Mrs. E. S. Rogers, second high.
